TROOP 11 BOY SCOUTS

Newton lads have made a fine record and are preparing for a busy winter

It may interest the friends of Scouting to know that the organization of Troop 11 was the outcome of a Fathers' and Son Meeting held in the Baptist Church at Newton in the Fall of 1911.

The Troop was organized and held its first meeting in the Baptist Church Vestry, March 26th, 1912, and entertained as guests the Newton Centre Baptist Church Troop with their Scout Master Kimball.

The Troop was registered and received its Charter April 12th, 1912, with C. H. Woodworth as Scoutmaster and Scouts Dexter, Goode, Lehman, Sylvester, and E. Woodworth. After the first meeting it met at the Y. M. C. A. Building until the Spring of 1919 when it commenced holding meetings in the basement of Bigelow School.

The Troop has had three Scoutmasters, the first as above mentioned until 1917 when Mr. Carl Ellison became Scoutmaster, followed a year or more later by Mr. J. M. Carley, the present Scoutmaster, with Assistant Scoutmasters, John M. Woodbridge, Jr. and Mr. John Benbow, and Acting Assistant Scoutmasters, Henry Stafford and Raymond Church.

In its short history the Troop has trained over eighty boys in its various grades from Tenderfoot to Merit Badge Scouts, and has rendered the City many valuable services, and from its ranks many of our boys entered the Army and Navy serving their country with distinction, fourteen of them following the colors.

MACGILLEN—GANNON

Miss Nora Catherine Gannon, youngest sister of Timothy J. Gannon of West Newton, and John Joseph MacGillen of Green street, Jamaica Plain, were married at the Church of Our Lady, Sunday, August 31st, by the Rev. Fr. Roache. The bride's attendant was Miss Mary Fay of Park street, Newton, and Mr. Patrick F. MacGillen, who has lately returned from overseas, was his brother's best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at Mague Hall, West Newton. Guests

The Scouts of the Troop distinguished themselves selling Liberty and Victory Loan Bonds, over fifty emblems and bars being earned by selling ten bonds each, and in the Victory Loan Drive, Scout Elliott Grant won a German helmet for the highest number of bonds sold in a contest with Troop 1 of Newtonville.

The President of the Council, Mr. John H. Eddy of Newtonville, presented an excellent tent to the Troop last Winter for its prize in the attendance contest, and this has been used very frequently the past Summer on the Council Farm at Oak Hill, Assistant Scoutmaster Woodbridge having put through very successfully a class in training for patrol leaders.

Messrs. Charles E. Rees and Edmund Leeds are at present the Troop Committee and expect to enlist another member very soon. The first regular meeting this Fall will be held at Bigelow School, East—Basement, Friday, September 12th, at 7.30 P. M. In order that scouts may be registered for the year 1919-1920 they should present themselves to the recruiting officer, Mr. Raymond Church, immediately as the registration will close September 20th and scouts re-registering later will be required to pay a fee of twenty-five cents unless their names are acted upon by the Troop Council at this time.

It is hoped that the residents of Newton will remember that this is their Troop and that they are welcome to all of the meetings and only with their support will the work be made successful.

were present from the Newtons, Waltham, Framingham, Swampscott, Jamaica Plain, Boston. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 13 Monastery road, Brighton.

REAL ESTATE

Edmonds and Byfield report the sale of the property No. 52 Algonquin road, Chestnut Hill for John J. McCarthy of Newton to C. H. Hobden who purchases for a home. Property consists of modern, single dwelling and lot of 6300 sq. feet, all valued at $6500.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Nonantum lad the victim of an automobile accident

Danny Leenie, the eight-year old son of Mr. Antonie Leenie of Middle street, Nonantum, died yesterday afternoon at the Newton Hospital from injuries received that afternoon, from an auto accident on Washington street, opposite the Church of Our Lady, Newton. He was struck by an auto owned and operated by Frederick L. Reed of Brookside avenue, Newtonville.

The lad was playing with chums in the street when the accident occurred. As Mr. Reed turned his car Danny started to run across the street. His course took him directly in front of the approaching machine, and he was struck and run over before the driver could stop the car.

The automobilist placed him in his machine and hurried with him to the Newton Hospital, but all efforts to save him proved unavailing, as he had received internal injuries of a fatal nature. Mr. Reed made a report to the Newton police.

CENTRAL SQ. THEATRE

At Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre the early half of next week there is to be a very fine vaudeville bill headed by Pietro, who is the world's greatest piano accordionist; Mystic Hanson Trio, a musical novelty comedy; Lucille and Cockie, human birds; Ballet Trio; and Grand Opera Duo.

This week marks the return engagement of Arthur Martell, America's premier organist. Jack Pickford in "Bill Apperson's Boy," the First National Feature, is supported by Gloria Hope, a screen star of beauty and great personality. There will be an entire change of program Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, with Bryant Washburn in "Love Insurance" and five new vaudeville acts.

Grand Sacred Concert Sunday evening.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Y. M. C. A. defeats Saxony Worst in first game in series

The Y. M. C. A. team won its 15th consecutive game of the season when it took the opening game of the series Labor Day A.M. 1 to 0. The game was played before one of the largest crowds seen at a baseball game in these parts for some time. The interest in this series is running high and with a game such as was played Monday as a starter even more attention ought to be drawn to the remaining games.

The game Labor Day was one of those air-tight games seldom seen on an amateur field. It was a pitchers battle from start to finish between Boyd and Hunt, with both teams working well on the defensive. Everything went along smoothly until the eighth stanza when Hunt decided it was time to get something into the score book besides goose eggs. With grim determination spread all over his youthful countenance he stepped up to the plate. Boyd grooved a fast one and Hunt leaned on it for three cushions later crossing the plate with the only run of the game when Boyd uncorked a wide one that got by Morrison's glove. Thus ended the first game of the big series. The next game will be played on Victory field September 13th.

FIELD DAY

The local unions of carpenters and joiners of Newton, Waltham, Needham, Natick and vicinity will hold a monster field day at Norumbega Park tomorrow in honor of their members who served in the war and are back home. The program includes a baseball game between Local 540 and Local 708. The field sports will begin at 2.30 in the afternoon and include a great variety. The committee in charge includes L. H. Johnson, George Sobieski, William F. Champaign, Fred Champaign, Fred Trippie, Angus McLean, and William Boucher.

NEWTON ARCHERS

Make a fine record at the recent National tournament at Cambridge

Perhaps it is not realized what a live organization this is, dwelling in our midst and drawing the longbow on the west end of the Newton Centre Playgrounds on most fair Saturdays and holidays. Not all of them actually live in Newton—it is a Greater Boston club—but a goodly number do. Last week the National Association of Archers held its tournament on Soldier's Field, Cambridge, during four days, and from it members from afar carried away about five prizes. The Newton Archers won all the rest! In fact, one of the youngest of them, Miss Dorothy Smith of Newton won a whole armful, giving a right wholesome example to our other young folk who are most heartily invited to get busy and do likewise. Her father, Mr. Louis C. Smith, brought to the tournament a lively collection of young men as recruits, one of them—Sumner Brown of Middlefield—winning in the handicapped match at 70 yards a beautiful $50.00 yew bow, that made many a man say in his heart, "Yew mean thing! I wanted to win that myself."

Among the other residential prize-winners (the complete list is not available at the moment) Miss Natalie True of Waban (Classical H. S. graduate) won the Cyrus Dallin bronze medal offered for the Women's Columbia Handicap. Her father, Mr. John Preston True, won the Clan McLeod Trophy Cup, a large bronze, silver-lined vase, in the William Tell Novelty event against the entire field of champions et al. by the simple matter of shooting an apple from the head of "Miss Isabella Tell", a dummy standing fifty yards away; and Mr. Geo. P. Bryant—who has but recently left us residentially—again carried home under his arm the huge Ovington Beaker by once more winning the flight shoot, at 286 yards; also in his pocket a Dallin silver medal for yet another event.

Only an archer knows the joy of watching his arrow curving down the range, the constant shift of failure to success, the steady growth of novice to expert and the everlasting competition with every other member in the Club. Otherwise, there wouldn't be room for new ones on the course. But there is now. Come out and try it!

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Some impressions and experiences in a summer trip to the Pacific Northwest

Always a lover of the mountains, I have cherished for many years the hope that I might at some time visit the Canadian Rockies. The selection of the Pacific Northwest for the annual meeting this year of the National Editorial Association made it possible for this hope to be realized, and I trust that my experiences in that wonderful country will make many another desire to "go and do likewise."

Our itinerary included visits in most of the cities of Western Canada, from Winnipeg to Victoria, and travel thru the Canadian Rockies by two different routes, the regular and best known trip over the Canadian Pacific thru Banff and Lake Louise, and the equally, if not even more beautiful trip thru the Yellowhead Pass in the northern part of the Canadian National Park.

I doubt if most of us, here in the East, fully realize what Western Canada is. In our younger days we were led to believe that this country was only used by fur trappers, was covered for many months of the year with snow and ice and, if inhabited at all, was fit only for Indians and Eskimaux.

Let us start with a few facts. Canada is larger than the United States, even including Alaska by over 100,000 square miles. Thirty-one per cent. of its entire area is fit for cultivation, only twenty-five per cent of which is occupied and less than ten per cent. is cultivated.

Western Canada consists of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia. Of these, the first three are about the same in area, each being about 760 miles long and some 400 miles wide, (a trifle larger than Texas) while British Columbia is half as large again as any one of them. When you stop to think that 760 miles from Boston will take you into the state of South Carolina to the south and that 400 miles will reach Buffalo on the west, you can begin to visualize something of the extent of this great part of the British empire.

It was to this wonderful country we were welcomed this summer, with Winnipeg, the capital of Manitoba, as the rallying point.

Leaving Boston the last of July, in the evening, we were in Montreal the following morning, and while waiting for the Transcontinental train on the Canadian Pacific, passed the time by walking about the city, including a brief visit to the Mount Royal park.

The Transcontinental train runs between Montreal and Vancouver, and is one of the best trains in the country.

both as to schedule and equipment. The trip to Winnipeg, takes about 40 hours for something over 1400 miles. After leaving Ottawa, where you get a glimpse of the famous Parliament buildings, the ride is rather uninteresting until you reach the shores of Lake Superior. You pass many lakes, but the country is apparently uninhabited. A great contrast is noticed as soon as Lake Superior is reached and the train takes you in horse-shoe curves past many fine water-scapes, with bays and inlets, islands, large and small and the afternoon sun silencing the waters all the way. Here, we also began to see great quantities of the beautiful wild flower called fireweed. It was present nearly everywhere and occasionally covered acres of ground with its blossoms of pink. Fort William was reached in the evening of the second day out and is a nice, clean looking little city of about 25,000. At this point we put our watches back one hour, to Central time, and yet after doing this, the sun did not set until nine o'clock.

Winnipeg, the chief city of Manitoba, is undoubtedly destined to be one of the great cities of the country, and is already showing evidences to that effect. It is already the third largest city of Canada with over 200,000 population, and the greatest grain centre in America.

It is the centre of North America. If one point of a pair of compasses be placed on a map at Winnipeg and the other passed through New York on the Atlantic seaboard, the compasses in their sweep will strike the shore of the Gulf of Mexico, and then Vancouver Island on the Pacific Coast, and also the borders of the Arctic Ocean on the north.

The main business streets of the city are very broad and paved with asphalt. The car tracks are so arranged that there is ample space between them, so as to provide, I am told, for the fire department and ambulance service. The residential streets are laid out with a wide grass border between the sidewalk and the curb and there are many fine houses.

Winnipeg, like many other Canadian cities has refused to accept the Day Light Saving plan and still retains the old standard time, which is one hour slower than railroad time. The clock in the hotel carries two hour hands and you can take your own choice of time. We ran across this same condition in other places and, on several occasions, it caused considerable delay and annoyance.

We were royally entertained in Winnipeg, the program including automobile trips about the city, its parks and residential sections, a fine lunch at the Provincial Agricultural College, a banquet at the Eaton store, a luncheon at one of the city parks, and a banquet at the leading hotel by the Board of Trade. We met a fine lot of men who were more than anxious to show us their city and to tell us about its growth and prospects.

We found many who wanted to tell us about the great strike which had paralyzed the city for some weeks this spring. The tales we were told did not tend to make any of us feel much sympathy for the strikers, and we fervently hope that the United States may not be called upon to pass through any such experiences.

We cannot leave Winnipeg without a passing word about the Eaton store, where we were the guests of the management at dinner. This store is one of the institutions of Canada. Its main office is at Toronto, and it has distributing plants at Saskatoon and Regina.

It is a department store developed to the nth power, manufactures many of the products it sells and employs over 23,000 persons. It was one of the first stores to grant half holidays to its employees, who now have Saturday afternoon thruout the year and all day Saturday during July and August.

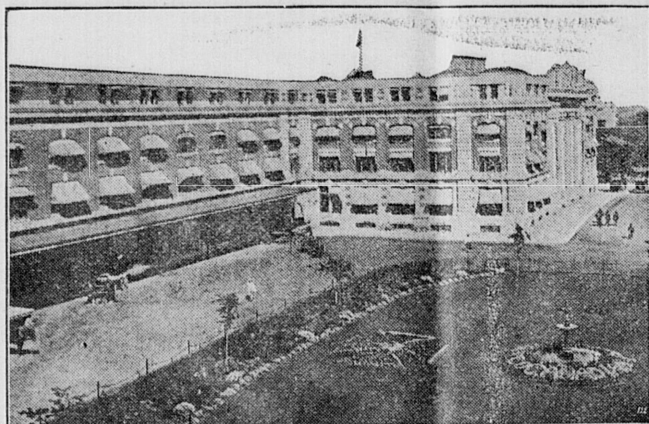

Handsome souvenir programs, each one bearing our individual names, were provided at each plate, and the menu was appetizing and extremely well served.

Winnipeg has a $23 tax rate, and chest under the care of a competent lady; a lanternist, a cinematograph projector and operator, and several gentlemen familiar with every mile of the route explained and described for the information of the passengers the outstanding features of the passing country.

The country just out of Winnipeg is well settled with prosperous farmers, among whom are a good sprinkling of former Americans, who devote themselves to general mixed farming, their output of live stock and dairying products being of equal value to their grain production, for which Winnipeg furnishes a highly profitable market. Passing through the belt of oak, elm, ash and giant cottonwood timber that skirts the Assiniboine River, we recrossed that stream and came to the famous Portage Plains, "The Garden of Manitoba," at Portage la Prairie, and saw far flung grain fields about ready for the harvesters on all sides. There are farms here that have been cropped continuously for over sixty years without artificial fertilization, a fact which attests the wonderful fertility of the soil in this district.

At Portage, we had our first experience with "slow time" for the Board of Trade did not expect us until an hour later, and in consequence, we were too early for breakfast. Portage, with three railroad systems, claims to be the railroad centre of Canada, as well as the home of the best wheat grown in the world. It is building a hydro-electric transmission line from Winnipeg, 56 miles three cent electricity. I noticed several barber shops with women barbers and a Barber college was also in evidence.

Base ball games were advertised to begin at 6.15 P. M., and later we heard of one ball game being called at 10 P. M., not on account of darkness, but to allow the visiting team to make a train.

While in the city I met and had a brief chat with Mr. Roger Barnard, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barnard of West Newton.

The province of Manitoba believes in economy and its automobile plates are so arranged that only the number of the year has to be changed. Incidentally we learned that United States automobiles pay a duty of 4-12 per cent, and that all automobiles pay an 8 per cent. war tax.

Our party left Winnipeg early Wednesday morning in a special train consisting of nine sleepers, two diners and a baggage car.

It was equipped and operated entirely and exclusively for us as guests of the Government and with the single and sincere desire to promote our happiness, comfort, convenience, and entertainment.

It was a complete excursion train, a modern hotel on wheels, equipped for a long journey. Telegraph and mail matter received special and expert attention. There was a complete post office and telegraph office on board, where stamps, telegraph blanks, pens, pencils, papers, blotters and the hundred and one of cetera indispensable to newspaper men were found in abundance. A battery of typewriters were carried, together with a party of competent stenographers. A daily news service was issued. There were numerous representatives of the press, an experienced medical attendant; a medicine away, and expects to attract many manufacturing establishments, when that work is completed.

I was interested in the fact that the daily paper in the city was called the "Graphic" and that the former publisher, C. D. McPherson, who had just returned from four years' service, with the rank of Colonel, was to be a member of our party for the rest of the trip.

We lunched that day on the diners and reached the little city of Dauphin in the afternoon. Here, as at Portage, there were plenty of automobiles to take the party for a drive thru the surrounding country which is largely devoted to the growing of wheat. The ladies of the city served an excellent supper in the City Hall after the drive.

RECEIVES SERVICE MEDAL

Mr. J. E. Reinhalter of 44 Henshaw street, West Newton, has received a Mexican Border Medal from the War Department for the service of his son, Earl J. Reinhalter, who was bugler of Co. C, 5th Massachusetts Infantry, during the trouble with Mexico.

Young Reinhalter served all through the war in France and took in all engagements with the 101st Infantry as a bugler of Co. C. Later he became a member of the band. When the armistice was signed he was transferred to Gen. Pershing's Band at Chaumont, France. On his 24th birthday, December 22 of last year, he died from pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhalter have received many sympathetic letters from all sections of the country since the death of their son.

Passed Up Tempting Offer.

William Ewart Gladstone, the great statesman, refused tens of thousands of pounds offered to him for articles by publishers. It is said that an American magazine proprietor once sent him a blank check and told him to fill it up for any amount he pleased so long as he sent him 2,000 words for his magazine. Mr. Gladstone returned the letter and the check also as blank as it arrived.

FOR PRICE REDUCTION

Washington, Aug. 30—Consecutive plans for the reduction of the high cost of living have been proposed to Congress by Representative Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. They are as follows:

Take immediate steps to increase the purchasing power of the dollar.
Control the export of foodstuffs, even to the point of an embargo, if necessary.
Get out of Europe bag and baggage as soon as possible.
Dismantle immediately the war machine and repeal the war emergency legislation so as to get back to a peace basis.
Eliminate every item of needless waste, cut off every unnecessary agency induced by the war, and reduce the national payroll to prewar times as soon as possible.
Dispose of the vast stores of war materials both in Europe and in this country on the best salvage basis and to the best advantage of the public at large by opening sales direct with the public.
Inaugurate a campaign of "work and saving" against the campaign of "beneficial extravagance" so widely prevalent.

The government must get out of business at the earliest possible day, but, if necessary, exercise a regulatory control of transportation under private enterprise, that economy and efficiency may be assured without the danger of advantage being taken of the public.

All profiteering must be punished to the limit.

Of the latter Dr. Fess said: "The government must employ its abundant authority to do this, and wherever it appears that more authority should be granted it will be granted immediately. The activities of the Department of Justice indicate abundant authority to prosecute profiteers. The Hutchinson bill, introduced several days before the President's last message, and following a general demand from the House that greater control of cold storage be exercised, is now before the Committee on Agriculture. If high prices are the result of storing or holding for the purpose of limiting the supply to the public, it can be punished with a penalty of $5,000 or imprisonment for two years or both, under the law of 1917. If the high price of the necessities of life be due to cornering, it can be prosecuted under the Sherman law."

ON TO THE CONCLAVE

Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templars of Newtonville leaves tomorrow on a special train to attend the 34th Triennial Conclave, which will be held at Philadelphia next week. They will be quartered at the Hotel Adelphi while there. The itinerary includes several days at the Hotel Traymore at Atlantic City and a one night stop (including a theatre party) at New York City. They will return Saturday night, the 16th. R. Em. Sir Frank L. Nagle, who is a national officer, left several days ago accompanied by Mrs. Nagle. The Newton party consists of over 100 and is in charge of Em. Sir George H. Dale.

FOR GALLANT CONDUCT

Private Joseph E. Campbell, Co. B, 102nd Machine Gun Company, a resident of Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, has received a certificate from Major General C. R. Edwards, commanding the 26th Division. It reads as follows:

"I have read with much pleasure the reports of your brigade commander regarding your gallant conduct and devotion to duty in the field on September 22nd, 1918, when you participated in raid on St. Hilaire, and have ordered your name and deed to be entered in the record of the Yankee Division."

Private Campbell is now in service on the Mexican border.

EDITORIAL

With this issue, the Graphic begins its twentieth year under its present management. While the editor has, my no means, begun to realize all the hopes and ideals with which we started nineteen years ago, there has been a satisfactory growth in all departments and the Graphic has an established place in the community. We know that typographically, the Graphic ranks among the best suburban newspapers, and we have earnestly endeavored to keep the news columns up to the same standard. Editorially, we have never tried to truckle to the popular idea, but have always expressed our views honestly and candidly.

With the editor a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative on September 23rd, it will be interesting to learn whether this frank attitude appeals to the voters of the city.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Graphic:

I am glad to see that there have been some protests in your paper against the change in the location of the boulevard from the end of the Charlesbank road to the river bank and the foot of Jefferson street.

Fortunately one side of the Charlesbank road for quite a distance has all the houses well back from the street line and the land could be taken at much less cost than by using the river bank, building a retaining wall and bridging the brook that empties into the river.

Use your paper to prevent such a needless expense and such an injury to the river bank.

To continue the boulevard to the foot of Jefferson and Maple streets would not help public convenience at all. Charlesbank road now goes right to Washington street, at better angle than Jefferson street and Maple street would not help at all as a means of travel to places to the west of us.

DEATH OF MRS. GARFIELD

Mrs. Eliza A. Garfield, who died this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Graves, 294 Highland avenue, West Newton, was the widow of Dr. John Garfield, who practiced for many years in Malden, where the family home was in Maplewood. Mrs. Garfield was born at Harwich and was married sixty-two years ago to Dr. Garfield. She had been a resident of Malden for fifty years and lived there until the death of her husband, eight years ago, when she moved to Melrose and later to West Newton. Mrs. Garfield was in her eighty-fourth year and had been ill a week. She is survived by a son and three daughters: John E. Garfield of Malden, Mrs. Daniel C. Palmer of Brookline, Mr. J. Elmer Cunningham, also of Brookline, and Mrs. F. C. Graves of West Newton.

CITY HALL

There are to be no food sales this week, according to Andrew Prior, supervisor for the Mayor in the distribution of government food in Newton. Mr. Prior says that the holdup is due to the failure of the Government to continue deliveries from the Supply Base in Boston.

Upper Falls

—Mrs. D. Crosby has recovered from a slight illness.

—Miss Marguerite Downing is visiting friends in Narragansett Pier.

—Mr. John Frost and daughter Lily has returned from Nantasket Beach.

—Miss Florence O'Hara is recovering from her recent attack of pneumonia.

—Mrs. Edward Cooper and family have returned from a visit to Nantasket.

—Miss Anna Rowley and Miss Annie Clark of Fall River are spending the week end with Miss Sara MacDonald of Hale street.

—Mrs. William Holt has returned to her home in New Hampshire after spending a pleasant visit to her mother, Mrs. Duke of Chestnut street.

—Daniel Lynch, the 13-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lynch of Cliff road and who left home last Saturday, was located that afternoon at New York city.

—A party of friends held a reception at the Twombly House in honor of Miss Viola Doyle and Mr. F. McDougal, who were united in marriage last Wednesday evening.

—The Upper Falls Baseball team defeated the Roxbury Town team with a score of four to one. They will play the second game of the series with Needham next Saturday afternoon at the Upper Falls Playground.

—The rain and continued damp weather proved too much Wednesday for the "Old Dresser barn" on Chestnut street, near Boylston street. In the evening the building began to lean toward the street and finally a part of it gave away. What was left became so dangerous that it was necessary to place lights in the vicinity.

BEGIN TO RENEW FORESTS

England and Scotland Have Already Started to Replace Trees Cut Down During the War.

England and Scotland are preparing to replant forests which have been cut to provide war supplies. They are not waiting until peace is concluded, but are doing it now. Never before have those countries been so bare of timber. Hunting ranges and sporting grounds have been sacrificed to supply munition factories at home and armies abroad. The old forests were primarily ornamental and incidentally useful, but those which are now being provided for will be primarily useful and incidentally ornamental, says Robert H. Moulton in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

In the United States we are not in so much need of tree planting as they are in the British Isles. But there are two kinds of timber which the war demand has greatly depleted, and they are kinds of much importance—locust and black walnut.

There is another point to be considered in the planting of these trees: They can be grown on sandy tracts of land which are now considered of no value, and thus reclaim the land.

An excellent illustration of what can be accomplished in the way of reclaiming useless land through the planting of trees has been carried out during the last six or eight years by a resident of Whiteside county, Illinois. In these years he has accomplished the seemingly impossible task of turning some 70 acres of sand, formerly as barren as the desert of Sahara, into a flourishing forest. Nor is that all; for this forest, acting as a sand binder, has been the means of saving other fertile acres from the inroads of the drifting sand, and the total result being that the farm has increased several times in value. The sandy tracts, which, before being planted to trees, were practically worthless, are now worth anywhere from $50 to $100 an acre.

HOLYOKE HAS LOST HONOR

Town Officially Declared Not to Have Been the Birthplace of Junius Spencer Morgan.

Holyoke, Mass., which has long claimed the honor of being the birthplace of Junius Spencer Morgan, grandfather of the present J. P. Morgan, has been shorn of this fame by the town of West Springfield. This decision has been rendered by the Connecticut Valley Historical society.

The explanation lies in the fact that the present city of Holyoke was formerly a part of the town of West Springfield and that, contrary to Holyoke's contention, and the assumption of the Morgan family, the site of the ancestral home of Junius Spencer Morgan is still included within the boundaries of West Springfield, though by a narrow margin.

The present J. P. Morgan received an opportunity to perpetuate family history in West Springfield through the instrumentality of any public gift which appealed to his fancy. Though Mr. Morgan was unresponsive, the contest between Holyoke and West Springfield for birthplace honors progressed merrily and was settled only recently.

Aviators' Ailments.

Rarefied air affects the aviator as well as his engine, and those who plan to make flying a regular vocation or to make frequent flights to a considerable height are liable to find difficulties in adjusting themselves to the new conditions. Etienne and Lamy reported to the French Academy of Medicine that enlargement of the heart develops in all aviators. In ascending to an altitude where the atmospheric pressure is half that normal to the body or less, extra work is suddenly thrown upon the heart, and if this is repeated often or long continued some adjustment is the natural course. The hypertrophy seems to vary in degree with the height frequented. Chasing and bombing airplanes usually fly above 15,000 feet, and the heart enlargement induced is greater than among the groups of fliers who keep in the zone from 3,000 to 10,000 feet above sea level.

But There Was a Difference.

Here is a story concerning Sir Arthur Pinner.

It appears that he was on the point of rehearsing a new play, the rehearsal being timed to begin at eleven o'clock.

Looking around at the assembled company, he noticed that one lady was absent.

"Where is Miss Blank?" asked Sir Arthur sharply of his stage manager. "She has permission to come at 11:30," was the reply, "as she is washing her head."

"Nonsense," growled Sir Arthur, in pretended anger, as he took off his hat, displaying his bald head. "Why, I wash my head every morning, yet I'm never late for rehearsal."

Ravages of Spanish influenza among the poor charcoal burners who live in the mountains surrounding the Mexican capital are said to be responsible for the unprecedented price which that commodity is bringing. In the last month charcoal, which is generally used for cooking purposes, has increased about 300 per cent in cost. The municipality has made arrangements to buy this product in quantities and retail it at reduced figures. One paper in the capital states that almost 90 per cent of the Indians who supplied the City of Mexico with the fuel were victims of the scourge.

MENTAL ATTITUDE

By CARMINE RUSSO
of the Saxony Mills

A man's job is what he makes it. A large part of his success or failure in life can be attributed to the mental attitude he has held towards his work. Before a man starts to work on a job, he should have a frank interview with himself. He should banish from his mind all doubts, depressing thoughts, or regrets for his past poor showings. He should concentrate all his thoughts and energies on the task at hand, forgetting all grievances and misunderstandings, doubts and troubles, and should live and work for his future advancement. Attention will soon be focussed on such a man. Too many men are apt to think that there is no future in the work they do. They really work against themselves, and before long they have the job in just the condition they think it. Enthusiasm, earnestness, confidence, are qualities that make you worth while in your jobs.

The writer recently heard an address given by the head of one of Boston's largest department stores. After the speaker had finished his remarks he had a short interview with his hearers. Asked personally by the writer what rules he would give for success in life, he replied, "I have no rules. My success is wholly due to the attitude I have held towards my work since I first began my career. Even now there is not a day that I do not say this little catechism, that has always stood me in good stead: 'Am I working for a good house?'

"Has my house the reputation and prestige of being one of the best in its line? Yes."

"Have I a good job, and am I giving the best that is in me? Yes."

"Am I going to do my best today, to make myself worthy of the responsibility my firm has placed in me? Yes."

Every successful man realizes that he would not have accomplished anything had he not had the right mental attitude, at the beginning and throughout his life. (From Wisdom Weavings.)

A NOTABLE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fiske of Weston announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Cornelia Horsford Fiske, to Harold B. Willis of Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Willis.

Miss Fiske is the sister of Miss Gertrude H. Fiske, who is known as an artist of ability, and her brothers are Augustus H. Fiske, Harvard '01, of Providence, R. I., who married Miss Esther W. Bennett, and Gardner H. Fiske, who was for a year and a half a lieutenant in his country's service at the front, as an aviator. He is a Harvard '14 man.

Another sister of Miss Fiske was Miss Hannah Bradford Fiske, who on June 29 last died at the Massachusetts General Hospital, after a brief illness, following her return from France a few weeks earlier. In France she had worked under the auspices of the Shurtleff Memorial Relief organization. She had for a year or more, as a volunteer worker, devoted herself to the welfare and needs of refugees.

Mr. Willis, the fiancé of Miss Fiske, is of the Harvard class of 1912 and in the recent war he had unusual experiences. He joined the Lafayette Escadrille of the French Army and while in service was made a prisoner by the Germans and after about fourteen months of captivity he escaped by swimming the Rhine to a point of safety. After his return to this country he was induced to give, in various large cities between Boston and the Pacific Coast, accounts of his war experiences and observations. After this tour of informal speaking, Mr. Willis returned to Boston and he has been engaged since then in his chosen profession, architecture, and has been connected with a prominent Boston firm of architects. Mr. Willis has one sister, Mrs. Hartley Gardner of New York.

SAVED APIA FROM GERMANS

Interesting New to Recall Commander Leary's Defiance of Overbearing Teuton Captain.

Persons who have said the United States had no case against Germany prior to the sinking of the Lusitania and events dating from 1914 perhaps are unacquainted with the trouble over the Samoa Islands which occurred in the eighties. Attempts by Prince Bismarck, then German chancellor, to dominate the islands, had been frustrated and a German consul had been withdrawn after he had caused a crisis by raising a German flag over Apia, one of the principal cities. Another consul, Herr Becker, acting on his government's instructions, again precipitated trouble by depositing the Samoan king and setting up a ruler favorable to German interests.

The climax came when the German corvette Adler prepared to shell Apia, the natives of which had become hostile to the Germans. Commander Richard Leary of the United States gunboat Adams had been in the vicinity of the islands expecting trouble. An account of what happened is a tribute to the courage of the American navy. It follows:

"At the appointed hour, the Adler steamed out with the German ensign flying at her peak. The Adams followed closely at her heels. Soon the Adler slowed down and swung into position, so as to bring her broadside guns to bear on the helpless village. The Adams dashed in between the Adler and the shore, where she, too, swung about, her guns at port and pointed directly at the Germans. Presently, Commander Leary in full uniform and accompanied by his staff, boarded the Adler. His colloquy with the German captain was short and sharp: 'If you fire,' he said, 'you must fire through the ship which I have the honor to command. I shall not be answerable for the consequences!' So saying, he took his leave.

"Captain Fritz could scarcely believe his ears. Such audacity had never yet confronted him. He knew that the first shot would be answered by an American broadside, and this would be the signal for a war between his country and the American republic. He faltered, and then, his heart swelling with humiliation, he steamed suddenly away."—Detroit News.

Carry Your Phone With You.

"By the time the peace treaty is signed we shall be talking across the Atlantic by wireless," says Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company. "One day in the not far distant future," he adds, "I think we shall walk about with wireless telephones attached to our bodies and we shall be able, standing, say in Piccadilly circus, to call up a friend who is flying somewhere. Or we may have an invitation by wireless telephony from a friend flying in France to join him at dinner in the evening. It will not be very long before one will be able to sit at one's desk in London and speak to New York practically instantaneously. In my view it will be as easy to speak to Sydney or Melbourne or to New Zealand."

Music as Health Aid.
Doctor Saleeby, the British eugenics advocate, suggests that the new ministry of health should have a special department to deal with recreation. The department should take London choirs and choral societies singing, in which all could engage. In his view this department would keep the young persons off the streets and out of the saloons.

A scheme for a confederation of London choirs and choral societies with the idea of directing the masses in the celebration of national rejoicings instead of the senseless mafficking that was in evidence on armistice night is being considered by several musicians.

Welcome News.

Mayor Woodman was speaking about the results that have accrued from the merging of the two telephone systems. "It's a wonderful improvement," he remarked, "and I laugh when I think of the old days. It reminds me of the man who was called out of bed at three o'clock in the morning to answer a phone call.

"'Hello, hello,' he yelled, all wrought up.

"'There is nobody on the line now,' said central sweetly.

"'Glad you woke me up and told me about it,' retorted the man, 'it's the first time I ever knew this line to be idle.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Egg Production.

The average production of eggs by hens of all kinds and ages in the United States is 85. Unselected White Leghorns, however, produce an average of 130 eggs for the first year, 120 for the second, 110 for the third, 85 for the fourth, and fall off about ten a year up to the eighth. These figures are from a bulletin of the Utah experiment station. If the first year production be low the second will be high and vice versa, the total production for three years being about the same.

Kipling's Fame.

The vogue of Kipling today is not what it once was. Fewer find fellowship with those descendants of Bar-dolph, Nym and Pistol, the Soldiers Three. His rough-hewn verse was largely topical and ephemeral. His latter-day songs detracted from his fame. His stories have come and gone and await the judgment of time.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Seeds for planting next year are quite easy to grow in the home garden. Home grown seeds are more dependable than boughten seeds and are a whole lot cheaper. So why not save some for next year? There is almost always a surplus of vegetables in the garden. The most perfect fruits should be allowed to ripen for seed. Leave one or two perfect cucumbers or summer squashes on the vines to ripen. Later the seeds may be separated from the pulp and dried. It is well to save the seeds of winter squashes as they are used from time to time during the winter. The flavor and texture of each squash should be noticed when it is eaten and then the description of such qualities should be written on the paper containing the seeds. In the spring the seeds from the best squash should be planted. In a few years one can breed up an excellent strain of squash by this method.

It is a good practice also for the home gardener to save seeds from such vegetables as corn, beans, lettuce and radish. Such vegetables are easily grown and there is almost always a surplus which may be kept for seed purposes. A few dollars worth of seed saved each year is just so much more profit from your garden.

If you find that the weeds are going to seed in your garden it is a good idea to get rid of them before the seeds ripen and drop to the ground. If you lack the time necessary to pull them up take a sickle and cut them off. They should be burned as soon as possible after they dry.

Keep your celery plants cultivated in good shape. It is well to hoe them at least once a week. Each time you go over them hoe up the earth a little higher around the plants. The soil should be banked up also around the Chinese cabbage plants. By following this practice the leaves are blanched and the plant has a greater tendency to head. The majority of Chinese cabbage plants fail to head unless banked with earth. They are different in their habit of growth than the common cabbage and require more attention. This new vegetable promises to become very popular in home gardens as soon as its sterling qualities and cultural methods are understood better.

RETURNS TO TELEPHONE CO.

Mr. Edward K. Hall, formerly vice president of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, has returned to the Bell system as vice-president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. He will be associated with N. C. Kingsbury, first vice-president, in charge of operation, and will give particular attention to relations with the personnel.

Some 20 years ago he entered the Boston law firm of Powers & Hall, who were the attorneys for the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, of which he later became vice-president and a director.

Mr. Hall is a graduate and a trustee of Duxbury College. He was a famous all-round athlete in college and he has been actively identified with college athletics ever since. For several years he has been chairman of the American Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee.

He was business director of the Students' Army Training Corps during the war. He has long been closely connected with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, of which he was vice president. Since January 1917, he has been vice president of the Electric Bond and Share Company of New York.

Mr. Hall was a former resident of Newtonville.

TO STOP SPEEDING

Newton police have opened up a war upon motor-cyclists who have developed a faculty of racing through the city highways at a whirlwind rate of speed and refusing to pay any attention to an officer who signals them to stop. For the past three weeks the situation has been getting increasingly dangerous and the authorities have become exasperated.

The first "speed artist" brought to book was before Judge Bacon Tuesday morning, and after the court had heard a witness state that Fred N. Burr of Roxbury, had nearly hit him and his wife, and that the cyclist was going "at a rate of speed of between 60 and 75 miles an hour," without any lights, at night, around a curve, Judge Bacon laid an assessment of $20 against Burr as a deterrent in the future.

Burr himself admitted that he was probably going at about 40 miles an hour, but he denied the 60 to 75 miles statement made by the witness. He was said to have come so close to the man and his wife that he grazed them. Then he swerved over, hit a tree and was pitched headlong to a lawn, and was later taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance. The story of his accident, however, brought him no sympathy from the court.

The police have developed a method of catching the motorcycle speeders which they are about to put into effect, and the indications are that Washington street, Clearway and Commonwealth avenue will be unhealthy stretches for speeders, even though they may look inviting.

HAPPY IN POVERTY

Former Theatrical Star Ends Restless Search.

Kaleidoscopic Career of May Yohe, Once Petted Favorite of Two Continents, Bids Fair to Have Unconventional Ending.

Searching for happiness, conventionally and unconventionally, along the gilt edges of the world, Madcap May Yohe, once darling of royalty, has found it at last as the wife of a workingman amid humble surroundings, herself a janitress. She has found it in work, in service and in self-effacement.

It is as Mrs. John Smuts that the tempestuous theatrical star of yesterday has added a bright chapter to the life that led the American girl to an English peerage at eighteen, into troublesome days of escapade, through heartbreaking years and decline of fame, into marriage again and adventures in far lands. All in the restless search for love.

At the end of her kaleidoscopic career she is now in Seattle, knowing poverty and the meaning of toil, and she says she's found what she's hunted for a lifetime in the man who loves her and is good to her.

Twenty years ago May Yohe had the theatrical world at her feet. She became Lady Francis Hope, mistress of the great blue Hope diamond, jewel of ill omen. As such she was the petted favorite of aristocracy and of King Edward VII.

Then she listened to the blandishments of Capt. Putnam Bradlee Strong, son of the then mayor of New York, and seeking happiness unconventionally went away with him. The adventure brought only sorrow and disappointment.

Striving to regain her lost glory, she stood again before a London audience in 1913, and London forgave her and took her back into its heart with a roaring welcome as in the older days of song and dance and youthful allurements.

Having accomplished that she became the bride of Capt. John Smuts, cousin of Gen. Jan Smuts of Boer war fame, and himself an officer in that war. She quit the stage and accompanied him to South Africa, to Singapore, to India, China and Japan.

Coming to America a year or so ago, in the hope that he would get a commission in the British army, Captain Smuts went to work in a Seattle shipyard when his application was turned down and ready funds were not available.

It was there he developed influenza and the woman who had once swayed the footlight world went to work as janitress to earn their daily bread. As worker and nurse she battled desperately for his life—and won.

"Won the greatest happiness I have ever known," she said, "as well as the life of my dear husband."

When Captain Smuts resumed work in the shipyards after his illness he "banished" May Yohe to keeping house in their one-room apartment, where they are living today.

Their financial straits were explained by Mrs. Smuts as due to red tape that prevented access to estate moneys, and to the fact that Captain Smuts, a judge and barrister in South Africa, knew no one in America.

"When Jack became ill they asked me jokingly at the shipyards if I wanted a job. I accepted it seriously. The only place open was for a janitress, and I took it."

"Things are brighter now. I still have my Jack, we're going to get some money soon, and if we don't go to England we'll start a little chicken ranch near the city here. Meantime, what more could one wish for?"

The Day Came at Last.

Special permission to accompany the French armies into Strassburg was asked by Captain Danner, grandson of Baron Pron, prefect of Strassburg during the war of 1870. At the time of the old city's bombardment the cathedral belfry was struck, and from the debris the prefect secured a piece of granite, and instructed his children that whenever the day of liberation came they should take the stone back and present it to the authorities of the town. Carefully kept during the 48 years, it was to be returned to Strassburg by Captain Danner on the very day of the entry of the French troops.—Christian Science Monitor.

How U-Boats Were Trapped.

One of the novel devices adopted by the British for the co-ordination of the efforts of trawlers and submarines has just been divulged. A trawler would drag a submarine by a cable and maintain communication with it by telephone. When the trawler sighted a German U-boat the British submarine would slip its cable and attack the German boat before the surprised Germans could submerge or prepare to give fight.

Attire.

"Is your boy Josh particular about his clothes?"

"I should say he is," answered Farmer Courtissel. "Since he put off his uniform he'd rather wear overalls than one of them high-waisted overcoats."

The Worse the Better.

Grocer—I can't guarantee those 60-cent eggs, madam.

Customer—No matter; I want 'em for when the neighbors come borrowing.—Boston Transcript.

DUDLEY ROAD HEARING

Aldermen Have Unusual Remonstrance Against Spending so Much Money on the Street

The first meeting of the aldermen following the summer vacation held on Monday evening, was enlivened by the criticism and remarks of residents of Dudley road over the efforts which have been made during the year to improve the conditions on that street.

President Harriman presided and only Aldermen Madden, McAnis and McCarthy were absent. No one appeared in favor of the widening and reconstruction of Dudley road, and for taking land for drainage of the same, but when the remonstrants were called, the fireworks began. Mr. James W. Spring said that they were there not to oppose the improvement of the street but to oppose the improvement as laid down by the City Engineer. According to Mr. Spring, the City Engineer had laid out a boulevard, where the abutments wanted only a country road. He sharply criticized one lane where there was solid ledge and which would add greatly to the cost. The abutments simply wanted a safe, economical way of resurfacing the road. He said there were holes from 6 to 12 inches deep in the road, and that tonight it was like the bed of a mountain stream. He declared again and again that it was not necessary to spend all the money the City Engineer's plan called for. Mr. Spring submitted an interesting letter written by another abuttor, Mr. F. H. Kennard. Mr. Charles Collins told of the action taken by the abuttors in signing the releases, and stated that the City Engineer had promised to have certain things done in connection with the work on the road. Mr. Arthur C. Badger said the abuttors did not want the beauty of the road spoiled and he objected to the straightening of the curves in the road, saying that it would tend to rapid automobile driving thru the street. He declared that the city could have all the land necessary for the work, but the taking of so much land as shown by the Engineer's plans was unnecessary.

Questions were asked by Aldermen Blake and Forknall to bring out the fact that the abuttors had agreed to sign the necessary releases and that some one was holding them back until certain trades could be made with the city. Mr. Forknall also told Mr. Kennard that, as there were no sidewalks on this road, the public safety required the straightening of the curves. To this Mr. Badger replied that in his opinion, the evil of automobile speeding was greater than other possible dangers. Mr. E. A. Janse provided something of an anti-climax by his suggestion that the bushes alongside the road ought to be cut down.

There were hearings on telephone and electric light poles on Winthrop street, Chaske avenue, Crafts street, Boylston street, Walnut street, Centre street and Brookside avenue, at which no one appeared. There were also unopposed hearings on private garage for E. B. Thomas, Chestnut street, Shalton A. Whitaker, for gasoline on Woodward street, of John J. Connelly for gasoline on Commonwealth avenue, Lizzie H. Brett for 3 car garage St. James street, E. B. Wilcox, for 6 car garage Hermon terrace, E. J. Thornton for 3 car garage on Walnut street, and Helen C. Hopewell for 4 car garage on Waverley avenue.

There was also a hearing on the laying out of Saxon terrace. George E. Glynn of Braeland avenue and Charles E. Quinn of Watertown street were drawn as jurors for the September term of court at Cambridge.

Mayor Childs sent in an unusually large number of recommendations including the appointment of election officers (printed in another column), an approval of increases in salary for the officers and men in the Police department, (Chief $3,000, lieutenants, $2,300, sergeants, $2,000, patrolmen, (Continued on Page 3)

NONANTUM CELEBRATES

Gives a Warm Welcome Home to over 300 Residents in Service

Nonantum gave a hearty welcome home to its sons and daughters who have taken part in the great war, at a grand celebration held on Wednesday evening in the Stearns School hall in that village.

About 300 service men and Miss Minnie E. Weldon, who was in Y. M. C. A. work abroad and Miss Anastasia Stuart, who was with Dr. Cabot's unit were the guests of the village at a banquet and entertainment.

The affair was in the hands of a most competent committee, comprising Aldermen Reuben Forknall, chairman; Mrs. I. T. Fletcher, and Messrs. Paul Champagne, Charles Chasson, Morris Fried, John W. Murphy.

During the evening there was an entertainment by an orchestra, with songs, monologues and an excellent performance on the accordion, the regular program being interspersed with local talent, who were dragged from their seats in the audience onto the stage by Mr. George Francis. It is needless to say that the local artists, Messrs. William Studer, Dennis Murphy, Joseph Delaney, Hugh Boyd, Alphonse Cliff, Charles J. Mahoney, Miss Bryson and Rev. Mr. R. M. Rae and Miss Rae made a great hit. There was speaking by Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Capt. H. D. Cormerais, Lieut. F. V. Lowery, Alderman Forknall, Rev. Mr. Rae, and Miss Weldon. A pathetic note was given the gathering in the presence of the father and mother of Ernest Jasset, one of the two young men in the village who gave their lives for their country.

LOST CHILD IS FOUND

Anna Yatsiecyk, the four-year-old daughter of William Yatsiecyk of Linden street, Upper Falls, created considerable excitement last Saturday, when she was reported as lost. Search was made for her everywhere without success, until midnight, when, the father going to a closet where he kept a case of beer, found the child asleep on top of the case.

BAD STORM

Newton Visited by Hurricane and Cloud Burst. One Man Injured

The wretched weather we have been experiencing the past two weeks gave an unusually bad exhibition of itself Monday evening, when one of the worst storms of the season raised havoc all over the city. In addition to an extremely heavy rain fall (nearly an inch and a quarter) there was a gale of wind which tore down trees and large branches. It is also said that there were two distinct storms that night, resulting in a cloud burst over the village of Newton Upper Falls, where a large tree was blown down on Oak street, carrying with it 6 or 7 poles and several hundred feet of wire. Near the railroad station dirt and gravel was washed over the tracks and the company and the city men worked all night to clear away the debris.

On Melrose street, Auburndale, a large maple tree was blown down and big limbs were found in the road on Thornton street, Newton and Austin street, Newtonville. In addition the electric light service was put out of commission and in some places, particularly on Ward street, Newton Centre, the wires were torn from the poles and gave a miniature exhibition of fireworks.

The most serious accident, however, took place in the early evening in Newtonville square, when ex-alderman Peter C. Baker of Newton Lower Falls was struck by an automobile owned by Mr. I. S. Dillingham, Jr., of Newton and seriously injured. While the storm was at its height, Mr. Baker started from the sidewalk in front of the Clafin Block to reach a car on the other side of the street. Mr. Dillingham was driving slowly, turning from Walnut street, easterly into Washington street. Altho Mr. Dillingham was taking every precaution, apparently, the driving rain so blinded both Mr. Baker and himself that they did not see each other. Mr. Baker was unconscious and bruised and badly cut. He was given temporary aid and carried to the Newton Hospital, where it was later learned that one rib was broken. He is now slowly recovering.

The next morning we arrived at Saskatoon, one of the really new cities of Western Canada for in the last thirteen years it has grown from a village of 100 to a modern city of over 25,000. The term "modern city" is used advisedly, for its handsome stores and office buildings, its paved streets, its fine residences and its progressive and optimistic spirit were present everywhere.

On account of sickness, I was unable to take the usual automobile trip about the city, but those of the party who did, assured me again and again that it was "some town", and as we went farther along on our trip, there were many favorable references to Stoom, as it is called for short.

The city contains the University of the Province of Saskatchewan, which plans to accommodate 5000 pupils. There is a unique memorial to the students who entered the war from the college. It takes the form of a ribbon frieze about the hall, the names of the 400 students being printed on the ribbon, and separated from each other by a shield on which is printed whether the man was killed or wounded, or it is left blank if he came back. 100 of these boys were killed and 200 wounded.

At this place we also found the record for frost, 30 feet being the depth the ground freezes in winter. As a matter of fact, the frost is reckoned as quite an asset in wheat countries, because the deeper the frost, the longer it takes in the spring to thaw out, and moisture in the thawing process is most valuable for the growing grain.

Stoom furnishes its citizens, as is customary in Canada, with water, electric lights and power and street railway service. Electricity costs from 6 to 8 cents for household purposes and is as low as 2 cents for power. The street railway is not yet self supporting. Land is assessed at its full value and improvements at about 25% value, and the tax rate is $20 per $1000, about the lowest I heard quoted during the entire trip. As a rule tax rates are quite high, most of them ranging in the thirties and one town being as high as $45 per $1000.

Our next stop was at the little city of Prince Albert, where some of us were driven about the place in automobiles, while the rest were taken on the train to the Fair grounds at the other side of the city.

I have never before ran across a typical country fair, and in truth, one experience is enough, for most of the people in charge of the booths were a tough looking bunch. Every other booth on the midway was devoted to one form of gambling or another, and it was a strange sight to see grown men, wasting their money on all kinds of gambling devices for the sake of winning a 10 inch Kewpie, a cheap box of candy, or a cane. One young man paraded up and down the street proudly exhibiting at least 5 Kewpies in his arms. There were quite a number of Indians in the throng, old squaws smoking pipes, younger looking, altho far from handsome, women, carrying papooses in some sort of a laced up bag, and little girls of 5 or 6 years of age, looking quite odd on account of wearing long skirts which came almost to the ground. In connection with the Fair was an exhibition of vegetables and fruit. While we were waiting for supper to be served, we were entertained by the antics of an aeroplane, which did some clever stunts over the fair grounds.

After supper we spent a little more time looking over the rest of the Fair, at the horses and cattle, but it was evident that the most attractions were along the midway, and soon wearying of its cheap and tawdry sights, we were ready and waiting when the train arrived to pick us up. That night, after dark, which did not come until well after ten o'clock, we had moving pictures, at the railroad station, and were shown some of the places we would pass thru while on our journey.

We arrived at North Battleford the next morning and I have never found out why the place was included in our itinerary, altho the people of the town we met were most cordial. It is a small city, with no special interest to the tourist and is still in the slumps from a land boom of several years ago. Our stay here included a ride out to the Provincial Insane Hospital, where we had a good view of the old town of Battleford, on the other side of the river. The day was hot, the place of no particular interest and we were glad to hear the "All Aboard" signal again.

We certainly made a day of it, however, even if the morning opened un-auspiciously, for when we reached Wainwright that evening, we found a program full of thrills as well as bumps. Wainwright is known as the "buffalo town" for near it is located the famous Buffalo park of the Dominion of Canada. The park contains about 100,000 acres—if you say it quickly it doesn't sound quite so big—covering about 160 square miles, entirely surrounded with a seven foot wire fence. In this reservation there are about 4000 buffalo, part of which are in a smaller section.

tion fenced off from the larger area,
in order that tourists may more readily see them. We were fortunate enough to get a good automobile and a good driver and for companions, had a Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ingham of Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. Ingham being a boyhood chum of the Rev. A. L. Hudson, former pastor of Channing Church.

The park was some distance from the town and the roads thru it are nothing but cart paths, or trails as they are called in that country. The land is a rolling prairie with occasional bushes, a few feet high, and our driver did not hesitate to drive the machine anywhere, trail or no trail.
We soon found that in order to see the buffalo, we had to hunt around for them, and it was no small sized job at that. While doing so we had a great view of a bunch of 25 or 30 buck elk, and they made a fine showing with every head in the air, watching us. A little later we found a bunch of over a hundred doe elk. The country. It was splendidly located, on a high bluff overlooking the Saskatchewan river and had a fine view of the surrounding country. While I took a bath and had a rest, the remainder of the party were given an automobile ride about the city ending at the Parliament Building, where the formal welcome was extended by the government officials and a picture taken of the group. A splendid lunch was served at the Macdonald, after which there was another auto ride. I noticed many peculiar ravines 75 to 100 feet deep which intersected the city at frequent intervals, but could find no one who knew how they were formed. There were plenty of good looking homes but not many fine residences. Most of the people were continuing war measures by growing potatoes in their front and back yards,

and were evidently in for a bountiful crop if the numerous blossoms was any criterion. We were also told that the potato bug was unknown in that latitude.

That evening we were guests of the Board of Trade as fine a banquet
as we ever attended. It was followed by a small dance and we sought our train that night with the feeling that buffalo were hard to find and our host told us tales about them which made the ladies in our party wish they hadn't come, and for whom the failure to come in sight of them, was a great relief. We saw an occasional outcast buffalo, but it was quite a while before we, or any of the other parties in the park, could discover the herd.

When found they appeared to number about 50 and we were most cautious
in the approach to them, as they appeared to be ugly looking and tough customers. A distant view was all we wanted, for we had been told that while the buffalo will not look for trouble, if he is unduly disturbed, he is rather persistent in chasing the disturber away. It is one thing to see such an animal behind bars and gates,
and quite another to visit him uncon-
fined in his native haunts, so to speak.
In town again, I tried to induce the Edmonton was a fine town, with fine

people and we had had a fine time.
Edmonton is the city that is different, as compared with other cities in the prairie provinces—different appearance, owing to its picturesque situation on the high banks of the Saskatchewan, and its plentiful supply of trees and foliage; noticeably different climate, summer climatic conditions, and different economic outlook. While the surrounding country produces big yields of wheat, and Edmonton has elevators and flour mills, it is not to these that Edmonton looks as the source of its prosperity and continued expansion so much as to its packing plants, creameries, and stock yards.
The Edmonton country, owing to its rich soil, and favorable climatic conditions, affording absolute assurance of good grazing and ample winter feed—

season—affords conditions highly favorable for animal husbandry, and it is probably the best mixed farming country in the Dominion; in fact, many farmers formerly from the United States, say that it is the best on the continent. In fact it is frequently said that the land about Edmonton is too good to grow wheat on; meaning, of course, that while with wheat at a normal price it can only be produced profitably on land of comparatively low value. There is scarcely any limit to the ultimate value of land so suited for the cheap production of beef, milk and pork. That is why Ed-monton's business men take more interest in the expansion of the operations of packing plants and creameries

than in the volume of wheat shipments.
We are told by geologists that Alberta contains above one-seventh of the known coal supply of the world.
Most of the Alberta supply is in the territory commercially tributary to Edmonton. This field starts at To-field, 40 miles east of Edmonton and extends to the mountains, 200 miles to the west. There are four mines operating within the city limits and about thirty others in nearby territory.
Edmonton owns and operates all its public utilities, such as street railway,
telephones, electric light and power,
and water services.
The city has always adopted a very progressive policy regarding public ada is no cheap man's paradise.

That evening we had some field
sports while waiting for night to fall,
after which we had more moving pictures and midnight was getting to be our regular time for going to bed.
One of the most interesting places
on our entire trip was the lively, bustling city of Edmonton, the capital of the province of Alberta, and about as far north as we went. Even at that, Edmonton is in the same latitude as Edinboro in Scotland, Copenhagen in Denmark and Moscow in Russia. We liked Edmonton both for itself, and for its hospitable treatment of us. We were met at the train with plenty of automobiles and taken at once to the Macdonald, one of the finest hotels in education and its thirty-six public school buildings are of a class that would do credit to any city on the continent, and a high standard of efficiency is maintained. There are two high schools and an excellently equipped technical school. The University of Alberta, magnificently situated on the right bank of the river, overlooking the handsome and dignified Provincial Parliament Building, affords facilities for higher education.

Any appreciation of Edmonton is incomplete without a reference to the mighty country of which it is the gateway, the Peace River territory. Here in the northern part of Alberta, tributary to the city of Edmonton, lies an empire as large in area as the empire of Germany. This vast territory, through which the Athabasca, the Peace and Smoky Rivers wind their tortuous course, has only comparatively recently been opened to the tide of new settlers. Two railway systems penetrate its depths, the Alberta & Great Waterways Railway, and the Edmonton and Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway. The latter railway particularly taps a source of almost inexhaustible agricultural and mineral wealth. The territory within the range of the Peace River country is also rich in minerals and in the evidence of oil, and those who have studied the situation at close quarters are convinced that the further development of the mineral resources of this region will reveal a wealth of minerals of one kind and another of almost fabulous value. Coal, asbestos, iron, copper, lead and tin are believed to exist in immense quantities and are only waiting the development that must follow the pioneer
railroads into the hinterland.
Extreme heat is practically unknown in Central Alberta. During what is known as hot weather at Edmonton,
the thermometer seldom registers above 80 degrees in the shade, and a record of 85 is extremely rare. With the absence of humidity these temperatures cause no distress, and prostrations from heat are unknown. Even during periods of greatest heat, the nights are always cool. Hot scorching winds are unknown; and nothing in the nature of cyclones ever visits Central Alberta.
Central Alberta is the most favored section of the prairie west so far as winter climate is concerned. It is doubtful if anywhere east of the Rocky Mountains, except where it is much too hot in summer, can there be found a more desirable winter climate than at Edmonton. The snowfall is light, being considerably less than in any other part of the Dominion, except a portion of the Pacific Coast.
Generally speaking, the snow that comes at the beginning of winter remains until spring; but the depth of snow rarely reaches twelve inches, and frequently is only about eight inches, or barely enough for sleighing. There are no serious storms and no blizzards. During about twenty-five years that the Calgary and Edmonton Railway has been in operation, the train service has never been stopped or even delayed by snow in Central Alberta; and it is believed that a snow-plow has never been run into Edmonton by any railroad unless for repairs. During the nine years that the Edmonton electric street railway has been in operation, the service has never been stopped by snow.

CASE HEAD . . . yweigh -rfich (ga
It is about the time now that Jack Frost paid us a visit. The damage he does in early September can be avoided somewhat if a few precautions are taken.

In most home gardens there are always a few vegetables that have not reached maturity when the first frost arrives. These can be attended to so that their fruiting period may be prolonged until the very heavy frosts occur. It is well to cover such plants
when a frost is expected with burlap bags, old pieces of cloth or other such material.

Plants that have been frostbitten
may be brought back to a normal condition again if they have not suffered too much. Such plants should be sprinkled with water early in the morning before the sun strikes them.
The frost will then be drawn from the issues of the foliage without causing any harm.

Winter squashes should be picked after the first frost strikes them. The first frost usually kills the vine but does no harm to the squashes as they are protected by the foliage above.
The second frost, however, will affect the squashes as they have no protection. It is well to cover the vines.
Keep the harvested squashes in the sun and at night cover them if a heavy frost is expected. It is very essential that squashes be thoroughly cured
before putting them in winter storage.
The harder the shell of the squash,
the longer it will keep.

All green tomatoes that are not wanted for preserving should be allowed to ripen in the cellar. After the first frost the vines should be pulled up by the roots. Hang the plants in the cooler portion of the cellar. The green tomatoes will ripen from time to time and ripe tomatoes may be obtained until very late in the fall.
If your shell beans have not matured by the time the first frost occurs, do not worry over it. The greenest ones should be separated from the dry pods when they are being picked.
Then dry them in the sun for a few days. They will not keep so long as the very dry ones and, therefore, should be used first.

BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The second of the series to decide the championship will be played Saturday afternoon when the Saxony game, played Labor Day morning, on worthy of comment. It was won by the Y. M. C. A. 1 to 0 but the Saxony is confident of handing out a sound trimming when they meet next Saturday on their own grounds.

$1500 to $1800) various small additional appropriations, including $500 for abatement of a nuisance on Adams street, North, an increase in salary for foremen in the Street Dept., to $1800, $250,000 for a new school house at Waban from plans of W. G. Perry and J. H. MacNaughton, for $9,917 to complete work on South Meadow brook, for the rebuilding of Dedham street, and for two portable school buildings at the Stearns school.

Several applications were received for license to sell second hand articles on Washington street. Mrs. Annie Keough for transfer of lodging house permit and for intelligence office at 507 Centre street, Nicholas Tocci wanted another pool table at Oak street, Mrs. P. J. Flannery wished curbing on Green street, Jane E. Sturart wanted Green street resurfaced, Everett C. Winslow petitioned for improvement of Walnut, Parker, Greenwood and Nahanton street, sewers were requested in Fair Oak avenue, Prentice road, Bridges avenue, Lothrop street and Roslyn road, Frank Feola asked for improvement on Charlesbank road, and there were petitions for the laying out of Windemere road and of Adams street, North.

Claims were filed on behalf of R. E. Harding and Mrs. Buzzell on account of automobile accident, Patrick H. Hickey because an oil wagon struck his horse and carriage, Gertrude Wiczorek and Lillian Haigh for injuries on the street cars on Walnut street, and Mrs. K. T. Kelley for injury to clothing by oil and tar.

When the usual order for a monthly contribution of $400 to the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co. was presented there was quite a discussion in regard to the notice of the Company of a ten cent fare beginning Sept. 20, and the order was sent back to the Finance committee for further consideration.

Orders were passed levying assessments on account of street sprinkling and for moth work, for a sidewalk assessment on Hammond street, for a hearing Sept. 22 on curbing on Centre street, for various small appropriations, including $300 for screens for the Bigelow, Stearns and Technical High schools.

The school committee was requested to report upon the proposed new school building at Waban, and upon the portable schools for Nonantum. Alderman Forknall invited the members to visit Nonantum some Saturday afternoon and see what improvements the Saxony Worsted Company was making in that village.

Garage permits were granted to George H. Beley, Decatur street, Gottlieb Gehring, college road, J. E. Mulien, Chestnut street, H. C. Frederick, Waltham street, and G. H. Crosbie, Lake avenue.

WOULD REMAIN 'UNDER COVER'

Sergeant Had His Reasons for Not Making at That Time a "Full and Free Confession."

An American colonel in France was having difficulty with his safe. It was the headquarters safe. Its lock had jammed, and none of his staff could open it. While they were struggling with it a negro sergeant came up to them apologetically.

"Cul'n'l," he said, "if I ain't intrudin' into dis heah diffickulty, I believes, sah, dat I might he'p yah."

"Yes?" said the colonel. "What do you suggest?"

"Cul'n'l," said the sergeant, "I suggests Co'p'l Hall."

"Corporal Hall? Why Corporal Hall?"

"Co'p'l Hall," the sergeant explained, under his voice, "was fo' foah years a buglah."

"Well, sergeant," the colonel said, "I'm glad to know about Corporal Hall. I wish I'd known it sooner. It would have saved us a lot of time with that safe. And tell me, sergeant!—in case we may need to call on you some day—in what direction do your particular talents lie?"

"Cul'n'l," the sergeant answered, "Ah doan' want to tell no lies. Stand in' as Ah does daily in de presence of mah Makeh, mos' doubtless Ah doan' want to tell no lies. But if de time comes when Ah kin he'p yah, sah, Ah'll make a full an' free confession, a full an' free confession, sah."—Ben B. Lindsey in the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS DUCK

Peggy of Rouen, N. J., Laid 325 Eggs in a Single Year, and Was Easily World's Champion.

The death of Peggy, the famous duck of Rouen, New Jersey, comes as a reminder to us that we would do well to follow the principles which guided the life of this excellent bird. Peggy was celebrated in two hemispheres as the champion egg-layer of the world, the New York Evening Post states. Peggy, in one year laid as many as 325 eggs. Yet, celebrated as she was, noted wherever eggs were laid or scrambled, head of her glorious profession, what was her attitude after we entered the war? Did she rush into print, airing her opinion as to what the president ought to do? Not at all. Despite numerous tempting offers from fowl fashions and other magazines, she refrained from utterance and continued contributing her daily drop to national victory. Even when the Germans opened their recent peace drive Peggy did not turn hysterical and demand that they at once surrender all the Strassburg geese. She, still in silence, went on with her lay. It is related of her that on the morning of her demise she quietly produced an egg, and, indicating her satisfaction with a feeble quack, keeled over and expired.

Tanks Like a Deck of Cards.

In the open stretch, beyond the last fringe of wood, we struck the field where the American tanks attacked the Huns on flank and rear and finished the battle of Argonne wood. Elizabeth Frazer writes in the Saturday Evening Post. Later we saw a complete outfit of these grotesque monsters go wallowing across a shell-torn field. Their insignia were the characters on a deck of cards, and they always followed suit. Thus an ace of spades was always followed by the king of spades, the king by his spouse; and so on down to the tray. As we passed, the knave of hearts thrust forth a grinning face from his round armored turret and waved a grimy paw. Close on his tail waggingly tangoed the ten spot. It was like some mad scene in "Alice in Wonderland."

Grim Jest Pathetic.

Was Poe's tale "The Masque of the Red Death" prophetic? His story was that on the stroke of midnight a tall, red-gowned figure revealed itself amid revelers as Death by Plague.

A counterpart from real life is reported from Cowestry, Wales. It is the report of a masquerade ball, at which one of the masked celebrators simulated Death, in a black robe and with hollow eye-sockets.

There were 140 dancers at the ball. Of this number, 122 are now suffering from influenza. Twelve are already dead, including the death masker.

Italy's Exports.

Italian motor car exports showed a falling off for the first six months of 1918, compared with the corresponding period of the two preceding years. From January 1 to June 30, 1918, a total of 2,356 lorries and touring cars were exported, having a value of approximately £1,400,000, compared with 4,148 vehicles in 1917 and 2,731 in 1916. The number of touring cars exported during the first six months of 1918 was 728, this constituting a record, for the figures of the two preceding years were 244 and 569, respectively.

It's True in Terre Haute.

The other day a primary teacher in the Terre Haute schools was teaching her youngsters about animals. She had told them about domestic animals and then gave examples of the cow and the pig. Then she turned to the children. "Can't some little boy name some wild animals?" she asked.

John could. He rose with alacrity. "Ghosts and Indians!" he shouted.

COPLY THEATRE—The fourth season of the Henry Jewett Players has opened most auspiciously at the Coply Theatre. The second attraction at this playhouse beginning next Monday will be George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," which is the eighth play by this distinguished British author to be given here. Coply Theatre audiences have long ago demonstrated their appreciation of his plays, which, it is generally agreed, not only point a moral and are highly entertaining, but are usually quite out of the beaten track of theatrical convention. "Pygmalion" was really the first love story that Mr. Shaw wrote for the stage. It contains all the elements of romantic drama clothed in modern dress. The title of the play is sustained in the action of the five acts which it takes to properly tell the story of "Pygmalion," which is both direct and simple.

There can be no compromise in the strike situation in Boston. The officers of the law should have but one allegiance—the law itself. Every true friend of labor ought to recognize this fact and to realize that a sympathetic strike on such grounds will do the cause of labor a tremendous amount of damage.

In a recent striking address which was given by Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle on Bolshevism, emphasis was placed on the thought that too little attention is given by the average citizen to the character and influence of the persons who are educating our children. In Mr. Hanson's opinion, the teacher, who rebels at the scant wage usually doled out educators, might unconsciously implant some revolutionary ideas in the heads of the pupils, and lead in later life to a condition which we now call Bolshevism. The remedy, he believed, lay in making the teacher content with salary, work and position in the community. The subject is well worth the attention of our city fathers, and while some additions have been recently made to the salaries of teachers in this city, it is evident that larger salaries are absolutely necessary if we are to keep our present force. If we glance at the future, larger salaries are a necessity if the right kind of people are to become teachers. There is no inducement, for instance, for a young lady to give four years of time at a Normal school to qualify as a teacher, when, with hardly any preparation she could earn twice as much money in a shoe factory, or leaving the High School. If this is the case with female teachers, how much more does it apply to men. There is not a tax payer in the city but will agree with the statement that all of the men teachers in our High Schools and the masters in our grammar schools, could resign and earn more money in other occupations than they now receive from the city. How much inducement will this fact give to the young men to adopt teaching as a life work, and our teachers of tomorrow are coming from the young men and the young women of today. If we fail to prepare them now, they will not be competent when needed in the future. The remedy is simple, and one, we believe the tax payers will endorse—it is pay larger salaries, with adequate pensions when the life work is past.

Returning from a trip across the continent, where we had a close up view of the recent strike at Winnipeg, and which, taken in connection with the strike of the Boston police, has led to some serious thought in regard to police matters, we have come to the conclusion that immediate attention ought to be given the condition of the police force in this city.

Better pay, and shorter hours are inevitable, if we are to keep the standard of the men up to the level that the citizens of Newton expect and will demand. No one will seek a place on the police force at $4.10 per day with long hours and no Sundays when the very best try to get any trade is paid $5 per day for eight hours of alleged work. With unskilled labor paid 45 to 55 cents per hour, there is no inducement to become a policeman, where an expenditure of at least $100 is required for uniforms, before the name goes on the payroll. While this is primarily, a problem of the present, the future has a deep interest in its solution, for if the post of a policeman is made attractive to the citizen, he will have better officers and police protection, than if the job is left now to men of less ability, and character. There should not only be a substantial increase in pay, but the present custom of requiring the men to provide their own uniforms should be discontinued, and a proper clothing allowance made to each man.

There is more in the strike of the Boston policemen than appears on the surface; it is a far greater question than mere matters of wages and hours and conditions,—and it is even greater than the serious matter of a divided allegiance between the constituted civil authorities and the American Federation of Labor. As we see it, the settlement of this strike on any other terms than a complete victory for the public,—and by that we mean the vindication of the right of the people to govern themselves, without dictation from any class or organization—would mean the abdication of popular government and a Bolshevistic condition which would be intolerable to very right minded men and women.

Let us not be sidetracked for one moment from the clear cut duty of insisting that our public employees shall have but one master—the representatives of the people.

There ought not to be any difficulty in reaching an agreement with the residents of Dudley road in the matter of resurfacing of that well advertised street. We have never, in over thirty years' experience in city affairs, known of a case where the petitioners requested the city authorities to spend less money than the city government appears to be willing to appropriate. It has always been the other way—an effort to get more money—Get together gentlemen.

Boston has clearly shown that prohibition pays, for the Penal Commissioner has turned back into the city treasury, $25,000 of his appropriation which he will not use, largely on account of the less number of commitments to the House of Correction for drunkenness. Let the good work continue.

The rioting, the open gambling on the streets and the hoodlumism in Boston as a result of the police strike makes every good citizen long for the return of those ancient days, when our forefathers used tar and feathers and rode undesirable persons on a rail.

LODER-EVERETT

The wedding of Miss Madeleine Everett, the daughter of Mrs. Charles Everett of Parker street, Newton Centre, and Lieutenant Commander Ames Loder, U. S. N., of East Orange, N. J., took place this noon at Trinity Episcopal Church, Newton Centre, the altar of which was banked with violet and purple asters.

The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Edward T. Sullivan. The bridegroom entered the church to the strains of "da Virgine delgi Angeli" by Verdi, and the exit march was "Le roi du Ciel" by Meyerbeer. The bride was gowned in heavy white satin, with long train, and held to the shoulders by Point Venise lace. The veil was caught to the head by a wreath of silver laurel and morning glories. The sleeves were of tulle with bands of silver above the elbow. The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Riggs Cox of Albany, N. Y., wore cream crepe chiffon draped over flesh pink satin, with Hydrangea blue chignon belt and train, and touches of silver. She had on a large hydrangea blue tulle hat with drooping brim, and she carried a garland of larkspur and smilax.

AN ORIGINAL IDEA FOR A SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL

A Soldiers' Memorial somewhat out of the ordinary, was dedicated last week in Camden, Maine. It took the form of a Memorial Grove planted on one of the summer estates there, to keep a permanent remembrance, not only of those who had died, but all who were in the service from the families of the summer residents of Camden, and the adjoining town of Rockport.

On a beautiful site near the main road, a tall flag pole was set, and around it four large pine trees were planted by representatives of Young men who had lost their lives in the service. Three of these were for young men from the summer families and the fourth was for Lieut. Stephen T. Hopkins of Newtonville, who for a number of years had been a summer guest at this estate, and the high regard in which he was held is evidenced by this graceful act of his former hosts.

Afterwards the forty men from the summer colony, who had been in the service, each planted a good sized pine tree, the whole forming a group which under the favoring influences of nature should develop into a noble grove, more impressive and durable as a memorial than any conventional buildings, or shaft.

These five young ladies, according to the Saxony Mills correspondents of "Wisdom's Weavings", are the prettiest girls employed in any mill in New England. So confident are the Saxony correspondents of the correctness of their estimate that they have sent a challenge for publication which reads: "We challenge any of the mills of the United States Worst or affiliated companies to produce five prettier girls than these."

DEATH OF MR. GRAY

Mr. Burton Payne Gray, a well known resident of Newton Centre, died at his home on The Ledges road, last Friday morning. Mr. Gray had been in failing health since last winter when he had an attack of influenza followed by heart weakness from which he never recovered.

During the past summer he took a long trip West to visit relatives, and seemed improved after his return, but he later began gradually to fail in health.

Mr. Gray was born on Dec. 28, 1867, at Ivanhoe, Lake County, Ill., and was the son of Rev. William Bradford Dodge Gray, a Congregational minister, and Julia Ann (Payne) Gray.

Among his ancestors were the Dodge family of early days in Salem. Mr. Gray was graduated from Yankton College, South Dakota, in 1890, and in addition to his A. B. degree, he later received there his A. M. degree, and that of LL.B. from Boston University.

Following his graduation from college, Mr. Gray came to Boston and took the law course at the Boston University Law School. Since his graduation from there and admission to the bar, he had been active in practice in Boston, and for the past five or six years had been associated in practice with Louis C. Southard, with offices in the Tremont Building.

As a resident of Newton, Mr. Gray was active in community interests. He took a leading part in the recent war activities. He was a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the Bar Association of the City of Boston and the Middlesex Bar Association. He served on the board of aldermen in Newton, for 5 years, and was its president in 1912, and he long was a trustee of Andover Theological Seminary.

Interested in archery, he had been president of the National Archery Association of the United States. In addition to archery he found much interest in shooting, fishing and in amateur gardening. In politics, Mr. Gray was a Republican. He belonged to Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, also, to the Boston City Club and the Newton Club.

On June 13, 1899, Mr. Gray married Maud Virginia Crawford of Warren, O., by whom he is survived, together with a son, Burton Payne Gray, Jr., a student at Phillips Andover Academy, and a daughter, Virginia Gray.

Funeral services were held from his late residence on Monday afternoon and there was a large attendance of friends. Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes officiated and there was singing by a male quartet. The body was cremated at Mt. Auburn cemetery.

ADAMS-BISHOP

The marriage of Miss Lillian E. Bishop to Mr. Brainerd L. Adams was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Nolan in Newton on Tuesday of this week. Mrs. Adams was a graduate of Syracuse University and a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority. She lately resigned her position as Assistant Librarian of the Vermont Historical Society.

Mr. Adams was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1915 and belonged to the Beta Theta Phi Fraternity. He has just returned from overseas with the Marine Brigade, having served for nearly two years as officer with the Sixth Machine Gun Battalion.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams sailed from Boston for Savannah on Tuesday. Mr. Adams has accepted a position in Atlanta, Georgia, where he will be connected with the Library Bureau in that city.

A HUGE SUCCESS

The field day last Saturday of Newton Council, Knights of Columbus at Cabot Park, Newtonville, was a great success, the attendance running well up into the thousands.

The predictions that the celebration would be the banner event of the summer for the city were amply justified. One of the prettiest features was a large group of Little Newton girls who acted as dispensers of tickets, cigars and notions. Every girl was costumed like a goddess of liberty, with a particularly colored liberty cap and kirtle.

The women of the city, who have been tireless in their co-operation with the Knights to make the day a success, rounded out their work by acting as salesladies.

A baseball game between the nine representing the Newton Council and one representing the Waltham Knights was won by the former, 6 to 3. The batteries were Higgins and Buckley for Newton; Connolly, Powers and Howley and A. Foster for Waltham.

There was a band concert in the evening.

Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel Gallagher and State Deputy Day were among the speakers.

John J. Hickey is grand knight of the council and Thomas Hession, deputy grand knight. They were assisted by committees numbering more than 100.

DEATH OF MR. MAGLINCHY

Mr. James F. Maglinch, a resident of West Newton for over 60 years, died Wednesday at his home on River street at the age of 75 years. The funeral will be held at St. Bernard's Church on Saturday at 9 o'clock, and interment will be in Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

WALKER-SHUMWAY

At a very quiet wedding attended only by relatives and a few intimate friends, Miss Alice Shumway of Bowdoin street, Newton Highlands, was united in marriage to Mr. Theron Bailey Walker of that place.

The ceremony took place last Saturday evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride, and Rev. Dr. George T. Smart tied the nuptial knot. Mr. and Mrs. Walker will reside in Wollaston.

There were more than 100 returned soldiers present.

Mayor Edwin O. Childs gave the soldiers a welcome in behalf of the city of Newton. T. M. Guerin of the National office of the United Brotherhood spoke on the patriotism of labor. Dr. E. Arens of the Babson Statistical Bureau of Wellesley made an address on the labor situation and the economic forces in operation in modern industrial life.

In the afternoon, there was a baseball game between Local 541 and Local 548, won by the former, 14 to 0. Mrs. J. S. Cucchiari and Mrs. George Melvin won the nail-driving contest for women. Other events were as follows:

Y. M. C. A.

Notwithstanding the damp weather of last evening, there was a big gathering of people on the grounds of the Association on Church street to take part in the Community Singing and to look at the motion pictures which were shown on a screen. King's Jazz band furnished music.

The affair was arranged for the men who had returned from the war and their friends and was in charge of the Service Secretary, Lieut. Sterling.

The program was arranged with the co-operation of the Service Unit of the Boston Y. M. C. U. The pictures included current events, Y. M. C. A. work overseas, cartoons and comedy, with the singing of America and taps by the bugler at the close.

NEWTON CANDIDATE FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL

The candidacy of J. Weston Allen of Newton for the office of Attorney-General at the Republican primaries is arousing much local interest in Newton where Mr. Allen is well known. He has been a resident of the city all his life and has served in various public capacities.

For four years he represented the city in the Legislature where he immediately became one of its recognized leaders.

During his term of service in the House of Representatives Mr. Allen was appointed to eleven committees, six of which he was named as chairman. In addition to the chairmanship of the Committee to Investigate the Fish Industry, he served for two years as Chairman of the Committee on Public Service and for three years as Chairman of the Committee on Bills in the Third Reading, which passes upon the form and constitutionality of all acts passed by the Legislature. This has given him familiarity with the statutes and with such questions as come before the Attorney-General for consideration.

He has today the best chance of success in the primaries and his election will place Newton on the State ticket. He should poll a large vote in his home city where he is well known from his long association with its public affairs.

NEWTON RED CROSS

Red Cross workers will remember that Miss Newell, New England Director of the Bureau of Production, spent some months abroad studying conditions, and she reports a great need of clothing for the coming winter. The Newton Chapter will consequently need the help of all its loyal members for a campaign to begin immediately, in order that garments may reach Europe before cold weather sets in. In the meantime, plans for further production will be made by the national organization, and these plans will be announced later.

Notice of the opening of work-rooms will be given in the papers and locally.

Now that we in America are so nearly back to normal and comfortable conditions of living, it is harder than ever before to realize the continued suffering of the people across the water but we must not fail them now.

NEWTON BRANCH SPECIAL AID

During the past two months 243 garments have been made and all sent abroad except 12 sets of pajamas which were given to the Seamen's Friend Society. 63 knitted articles have also gone across.

The Special Aid has accomplished one specific task in outfitting the new destroyer "Shubrick" which has started to join the Pacific Fleet. The crew consists of 70 men and 200 knitted garments have been supplied to them. There are still needed, however, 40 more pairs of gloves.

Calls are beginning to come from other boats. The special needs are long sleeved sweaters and gloves, which are not furnished by any other society.

PLAYED JOKE ON THE HUNS

Sioux Indians Had Fun for Three Days
Talking Over a Tapped
Telephone Wire.

Because of the nature of the country over which American troops fought in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the Germans found it easy at times to cut in on our field telephone wires.

The commander of one brigade of artillery attached to an American division was particularly annoyed by enemy wire tappers in a heavily wooded section of the Argonne. Code messages from artillery observers were being intercepted by Boche listeners-in, and the commander knew, as all armies know, that no code is impregnable when experts get working on it.

The artillery commander took up with the colonel of one of the line regiments the question of the Huns' wire-tapping activities. And the colonel hit upon an idea.

Two Indians, both of proud Sioux lineage, members of one of his companies, were assigned as telephone operators. One was to go forward with the artillery observer, the other to remain at the brigade receiving end of the wire which the artillery commander was certain the Germans had that day tapped somewhere along the line.

Now, when two Sioux Indians get talking together in their own tongue, what they say sounds very much like code, but isn't. Anyway, it raised hob with the code experts of certain Prussian guard units.

The Sioux stuck on their jobs for three days and nights. They and the artillery commander and their own colonel enjoyed the situation immensely. If the Germans got any fun out of it they kept it to themselves.—Stars and Stripes.

OLD LONDON BELL FOUNDRIES

Relics of Many of Them Are Still to Be Found Scattered Through the British Capital.

In the days before clocks, to say nothing of watches, were common the bells of London occupied a much more important position than they do today. 'Prentices depended on this bell and that to call them very unwillingly to work of a morning and release them very willingly from work of an evening, whilst bells were requisitioned for all manner of special purposes. And so there were many bell foundries in the city. Relics of them are found in many places, even if it is only a street name, such as Blittler street, which, as Mr. Landfear Lucas points out, was undoubtedly Bell-sizers or Founders' lane. Then Belsize probably owes its name, he declares, to a bell foundry on the lower part of Hampstead hill. Something of this sort is all that remains of many of them, but others, like the Whitechapel Bell foundry, which has been charged with retuning and rehanging the bells of Westminster abbey for the peace rejoicings, have continued to do business through the centuries. The foundry commenced business in 1570.

Timely Suggestion.

A Brooklyn lady who bought some get-rich-while-you-sleep oil and mining stock recently, is now just too provoked for anything because she didn't examine the shares more closely. Some of them are red, some yellow and some green. She tried to paper her kitchen walls with them after the president of the company disappeared, but the artistic effect was not satisfactory.

In doing your spring shopping for worthless securities, insist on getting stock certificates that harmonize in color. Then you can use them for decorative purposes after the company goes to the wall.

An old piano box covered with the shares of deceased corporations makes a pretty good clothes press, provided the stock matches nicely in shade and texture. Persons who are color blind should be extremely cautious with their wild-cat investments these days.—Thrifty Magazine.

Predictions Near Fulfillment.

Napoleon prophesied at St. Helena that there would be no kings in Germany a century after his death. Ten years before the Huns broke loose, Lord Roberts predicted that if a great European war came in our days, Ferdinand Foch, who was then an unknown officer, would be one of the most famous actors in it.

A rather neat prediction was made as far back as 1896 by the redoubtable Frenchman, Henri Rochfort, marquis and anarchist.

"We cannot get Alsace-Lorraine back by ourselves," he told an interviewer. "But one day the German eagle will get drunk with pride and will annoy the British bulldog. Then the bulldog will form an alliance with us to kill the eagle, and we shall recover the lost provinces."—London Answers.

Good Pipes From Paper Material.
"Pertinax," one of the most important of substitutes for metal, is a compressed paper material, which has been used in place of lead and copper for pipes for gas, oil and other purposes. From a British war trade report, it appears that these pipes can endure three or four times as great a pressure as lead, while their weight is only one-ninth as great, and they are watertight, insoluble and unaffected by temperatures up to about 200 degrees Centigrade. The tensile strength of the material is 14,000 pounds per square inch, nearly equaling that of the best stamped, saved-out and drilled, and as an electric insulator approaches porcelain in effectiveness.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NOTES

The teachers of the different departments have been investigating the lines of work taken up by the pupils of the school since its existence as a distinctly vocational school.

This research work, which was performed for the State Board of Education, was conducted by means of questionnaires sent to about 800 boys and girls and by personal visits to several hundred homes and business establishments.

Mr. Robert O. Small, Deputy Commissioner of Education, will address the school at the Monday assembly, Sept. 15th.

Mr. William H. Bixby has been appointed State Supervisor of Vocational Education for Delaware and will enter upon the duties of his office in October.

Mr. Bixby, Mr. Barney and Mr. Goodwin have taken summer courses at Columbia University.

The canning classes held during the summer were supervised by Mr. Swett of the Agricultural Department and by Miss Koefe, who will succeed Miss Pearce as a teacher of cooking.

Miss Pearce is taking a course in the School of Salesmanship. Miss Agnes Curtis, formerly of the Home Making Department, has accepted a position as Head of the English Department of the Classical High School at Roselle, New Jersey. Mr. Williams, Mr. White and Mr. Willard, who have been engaged in war work during the past two years, received a hearty welcome upon their return to their positions as instructors.

A BROTHER'S WARNING

Revenge fills not the world's set mind;
Good will to foes, whatever kind.
Shines out for all who worthy prove
Of trust and honor, faith and love.
For frightful deeds, most foul, abhorred,
The Allies speak this warning word:
"Forgiveness full and vengeance given
To him who payment makes from heaven,
We pledge for Teuton's shameless crime
To grant throughout all coming time.
But terms are strict; the need is dire,
If earth escapes war's blasting fire.
No submarine you'll send to sea;
No scraps of paper shall there be;
"Spurious verse" is out of date;
No more you'll sing your hymn of hate;
The piper's paid by those who dance;
You'll pay for all you've done to France;
For every life gone out in gloom
Hangs o'er your head financial doom;
For houses wrecked, for orchards felled
For mines destroyed, for hostage held,
Cathedrals razed by Godless hell,
For women raped by fiends of hell,
For factories scrapped, for looted bank,
For dungeon deep where fetters clank,
For fields laid waste, for landscapes spoiled,
For springs of death by poison roiled,
For captives roughly torn away,
You shall not 'scape your judgment day.
But more than this and greater far,
The fate you've earned in devilish war
Will blight your nation's flag and name,
For, sullied by eternal shame,
Germania's brow, erstwhile so bright,
Will darken into gloomy night.
No place has earth for tribe or clan
Or nation vaunting Kultur's plan,
Extolling might, denying right,
Prepared to wage a world-wide fight
To rule the world by fraud and force
While greed and plunder have free course
No heath, no home, no resting place
Will nations give to treacherous race
Which breaks its faith, whose plighted word
Is lightly, scornfully abused.
Play fair the game of life with all;
Pay off your debts to great and small;
Atone your crime 'gainst fellow man;
Wipe out your past, if e'er you can.
Make fit your land for Worldstate good.
Be worth high rank in brotherhood.
Full warning take; good faith observe;
If German deeds from this test survive,
Then nations near and nations far,
Foreboding dread and vengeful war,
To powdered dust your race will grind
And scatter all to howling wind."
R. L. Bridgman.

EDISON'S VOICE IN RECORDS

Inventor of Phonograph, for the First Time, Makes Short Speech Which Will Be Preserved.

Thomas A. Edison, who invented the phonograph 42 years ago, has for the first time consented to have his own voice recorded on a phonograph record. The reproduction, which is on the back of a record containing the national anthems of our allies, was heard recently for the first time in the Edison laboratory at Orange, N. J.

Mr. Edison celebrated his 72nd birthday on February 11. The talk, which is Mr. Edison's first comment about the war since America entered the fight, follows:

"Our boys made good in France. The word 'American' has a new meaning in Europe. Our soldiers have made it mean courage, generosity, self-restraint and modesty. We are proud of the North Americans who risked their lives for the liberty of the world, but we must not forget, and we must not permit demagogues to belittle the part played by our gallant allies. Their casualty lists tell the story.

"However proud we may be of our own achievements, let us remember always that the war could not have been won if the Belgians, British, French and Italians had not fought like bulldogs in the face of overwhelming odds. The great war will live vividly in the minds of Americans for the next 100 years. I hope that when we do reverence to the memory of our brave boys who fell in France we shall not forget their brothers in arms who wore the uniforms of our allies.

"I believe that the national airs of France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium should for all time to come be as familiar to us as our own 'Star-Spangled Banner.'"

BRIDAL FLOWERS HERE AGAIN

That Orange Blossoms Are in the Market Is a Sure Harbinger of World Peace.

One interesting sign of the coming of peace has been the reappearance of real orange blossoms at weddings. During the war they were difficult to obtain, owing to the fact that they come as a rule from France. Nearly all the orange flowers which are used at smart marriages in London and Paris grew in the sheltered valleys of the Alps Maritimes behind the Hlyers.

Here there are orchards of orange trees scattered over the sunny slopes, and the local peasantry devote most of their time to growing the beautiful flowers. No attempt is made to get the fruit, seeing that the orange trees are solely cultivated for the sake of the glistening blooms.

A large part of the floral crop finds its way to the perfume factories of Grasse, but the choicest sprays are picked for the London and Paris markets. Orange flowers keep fresh for a considerable time, and they stand the journey to England very well, arriving in perfect condition.—London News.

Kangaroo Scored Knockout.

"Ned Kelly, the old buck kangaroo, has been having a fight with the boss stag of the axis deer herd," said Sergeant McGee of the San Francisco park police, "and it is the first time I ever heard of two herbivorous animals so widely different in species finding common ground for a quarrel.

"As a matter of fact, it was the axis deer that started the trouble. He was trying to show off before the does and started butting at poor old Ned Kelly who was peacefully lolloping about with no thought for trouble. The first butt of the deer set Ned thinking, the second set him mad, the third—well, Ned Kelly just turned about and gave the axis deer one wallop under the stomach with its tail. You could hear the smack five blocks away, and it simply knocked the deer flat. It dropped—as if it had been shot, while Ned Kelly just hopped away as happy as a bird."

One Thing More.

A pretty girl fluttered over to a neighbor's house Sunday last to borrow some writing paper. She had an important letter to write and mail, and she was out of stationery. About half an hour later she returned for an envelope, and a little later still came back for a stamp. "Well, I hope that's all she wants to borrow today," said the disgruntled neighbor woman as she slammed the door after the pretty girl. "She needs a little 'spit' to make the stamp adhere," said the neighbor woman's husband "and she'll be over after that in a minute."—Arkansas Thomas Cat (Hot Springs, Ark.).

Insurance Against Tuberculosis.

Dr. P. J. Menard outlines in the Presse Medicale a plan for universal compulsory insurance against tuberculosis, the funds from which would serve for the fight against tuberculosis. His scheme is something like compulsory social insurance against sickness, but the tax or insurance dues imposed would include all classes of society, not merely the wage earners. He protests that the fight against tuberculosis should not be left to charity or private initiative.

Unduly Apprehensive.

"I hope they'll make some exceptions in taxing luxuries," remarked the plain person.

"Are you expecting to be hit?" "I might be. One of the greatest luxuries I know of is sitting around the house in my shirt sleeves and reading the paper."

OPPOSE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

There was an enthusiastic crowd present at a open air meeting last Sunday afternoon on the West Newton playground, to hear the League of Nations discussed and criticized by Mayor Childs, Charles E. Fay of Boston and Joseph P. Walsh.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, the Sean Housh Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, the local divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and other organizations.

Mayor Childs, introduced by Chairman William H. Thomas of Newton, high chief ranger of the Foresters, said in part:

"I have been reading all that I could about this League of Nations, and studying the utterances of men who have made it the subject of intense examination, and have arrived at the conclusion that what we need, more than anything else in this country today, is a league of true blue, 100 percent American citizens, who will stand together. If we do stand together, then all the defects in any league of Nations that may come before the Senate must disappear.

"No man will deny that he is in favor of some sort of a League of Nations. We all of us want peace. There is unrest, turmoil and distress all over the United States. It's about time that we got together. That's the only way that we can save America."

The speaker declared that the real dangers confronting the country were overconfidence, underestimation of the causes of troubles about us, and, chiefly, the danger of men being unwilling to stand for the price of peace.

"Sometimes," he said, "men lose all in the hour of victory—lose all that for which wars are fought. Every day we pick up the papers and see that attempts are being made to turn the country upside down. What we need is the application on the part of every one of us in our everyday living of a real patriotism, and a true religion."

Charles E. Fay threw down the gauntlet to the President at the outset of his speech. He asserted that the League of Nations is unfair and hypocritical. "We have been told to 'put up or shut up,'" he said.

"We will put up. What voice did the people of England have in saying that Ireland should not have her demands? Why, the English people haven't had a voice in it at all. They voted to free Ireland. Their committee at the conference, their Government voted to enslave it.

"We have heard much of this vaunted democracy in England. What we need is a little real democracy, in this question.

"If the League of Nations is not universal in its application, then it is not a fair league. How are we to believe that a people denied a hearing in court at the conference, will receive any consideration at all in the future?"

The speaker scored Lloyd George for his institution of a committee on Irish interests, which was deprived, he declared, of the right to consider matters vitally of interest to Ireland. The Mission Church Band furnished music. Flags of the new Irish Republic were displayed.

16 STRAIGHT VICTORIES

The local Y. M. C. A. baseball team went to Wellesley last Saturday where after an uphill game they came thru in the ninth with the 16th consecutive game of the season. Timely hitting by Shaw, Newell, Barnes and Bills evened up the score in the eighth, and in the final chapter after Thomson singled and stole a second run brought in the winning run when he stepped into one for three bags.

Next Saturday the second game of the City series with the Saxony team will be played on the Victory field.

Journalism is a pursuit rather than a profession. It has no definite bonds, it has no common law or custom it has principles, and yet they are held rather individually than by common consent. It never will be a profession in the same sense that law is. It has in it so much necessity that is voluntary, that cannot be fixed, whilst the law clings to the forms of civil society. It has a have, whose votaries are its slaves—its willing slaves, who sow that others may reap. Municipal journalism is in a class by itself—it produces no great journalists—they are brought in, like Cincinnati, from the country places; those who grow up with the business as conducted in the cities, are apt to have the sap squeezed out of them by the severe discipline and the grind.

Newspaper men are like our pheasants, never shot at till they rise. But while the city editors seem to vie with each other in cynic malice and satyr wit, in their apparently sincere hatred for each other, it is to "country journalism" that we must turn—here the outlook is not unpleasant. The small editor is generally loyal to his town and state; he is a good host, an appreciative guest. A mild critic, a public character, constructive rather than destructive, and his worst attribute is devotion to his party, in which he usually lives and moves and has his being.—Ashland Record.

SHUBERT THEATRE—These are the days of big things, so far as concerns the musical comedy output, and no one realizes the force of this argument with greater appreciation than does Arthur Hammerstein. With the same assurance he gave concerning his former successes Mr. Hammerstein offers another sparkling production, book and lyrics by Rida Johnson Young, music by Rudolf Friml, in "Some Time" with Frank Tinney, which furnished unusual evidence of its power to captivate at the New York Casino Theatre where, for nine solid months it ran along to capacity audiences. "Some Time" with Frank Tinney and a cast of superior excellence and chorus which for life, youth and vocal ability measures up to the finest standard ever brought with special promise will make its bow in Boston at the Shubert Theatre next Monday night, September 15. If a capital farce story blended with romance, delightfully told, together with melody of supreme fascination, and array of beautiful girls and a production of scenic and complete costume grandeur mean anything, the occasion ought to be one of those with enduring pleasant memories.

WHERE THE MONEY WENT

Washington, D. C.—Forced to do so by the Republican Congress, in response to its resolution, President Wilson has submitted detailed accounts of the expenditure of the $150,000,000 given him at his own request for war purposes.

These are deemed unsatisfactory by Chairman Good, of the House Appropriations Committee and other members of Congress, because they are in many instances vague and general, and because they reveal the cost to the people of unchecked authority and the tendency toward participation by the United States in the government of all nations.

For instance, members are shocked to find that the President has out of his fund given $5,000,000 to relieve the condition of Russian civilians in the Archangel district. Several thousands of American troops are there, though war has not been declared upon the Russian government since it did not make good as one of the allies. Another five millions was given to "improve economic conditions in Russia." Anarchy is generally conceded, in dispatches through the State Department, to prevail there, and this sum was given to remove it. Members of the appropriations committee, accustomed to scrutinizing every penny of the money of the people, are sceptical of the results obtained by these five millions.

Though the United States has nothing to do with the government of Siberia, $4,000,000 was paid out by the President for the Transsiberian and Eastern Chinese railways for a purpose not yet learned. Another item is $17,000 for the American Railway Mission in Russia. The expense of several other missions to study conditions in Russia were disbursed from this fund also.

For the expenses of the President and his large entourage in the participation in the making of the treaty of peace at Versailles and for the Department of State generally in this connection, there is an expenditure by the President out of his fund of $8,393,245—this during a period of about five months. Bernard M. Baruch, Wall Street manipulator and the President's technical adviser, got $150,000. An allotment of $60,000 to the State Department and of $10,000 to the Department of Labor to the Chief Executive refused to explain because confidential. For carrying the government along while he was in Europe and refused to call Congress in extra session, several large sums are given the departments, including $2,868,000 for war risk.

BETTER THAN ANY MEDIUMS

Mince Pie That Brought Vision of Home Caused Wounded Soldier to Long for Life.

Pie is not among the articles treated of in works on materia medica, but a recent incident shows that it may have therapeutic value. In a hospital lay an American sailor, for whom everything had been done by surgeons, doctors and nurses, and yet something was lacking. He was homesick; his mind was ever away in a little Atlantic coast town. One day, in the midst of his bodily pain and soul-suffering, there flashed upon him the object of his quest, and he murmured excitedly: "Oh, if I could only have a piece of mince pie!" It was not that he was too ill for that. His hunger was for what the pie represented.

An American nurse who heard the wish managed, with some difficulty, to find all the ingredients for a real New England pie. When she took it to him she put with it a bit of cheese, so that nothing would be lacking, and in the cheese she planted a miniature Stars and Stripes. The poor boy could eat neither the pie nor the cheese, but they contributed just the home touch needed to improve his condition. When the wife of the American consul general visited him later she remarked upon the improvement in his condition, and he said: "Two days ago I was in such misery that I could have welcomed death. Now I feel that America is not so far away as I thought and that I have got to hang on."

GENERAL BELIEF IN HONESTY

Something Very Like the Millennium Seems to Be Near in Great British Metropolis.

How is the sudden trust Londoners have come to exhibit for each other to be accounted for? There is an extreme shortage of copper coins for small change in London, and one man says of his experiences: "On several occasions lately news vendors who have been unable to change silver have said to me, 'Never mind, pay me the next time you are this way.' Only one of them knew me as a regular customer. Even more unexpected credit than this was offered me at a railway booking office where I tendered a shilling for a two-penny fare. 'I'm short of coppers,' said the girl booking clerk, 'pay me tomorrow.' But I shall not be here tomorrow," I replied. "Then pay me the next time you are here, when ever it is," she said. "But suppose I forget," I expostulated. "Oh, I know that you will come and pay me some day," she answered. "I've never known people fail!" Similar testimony is offered by others, who tell of copper credit thrust upon them by strangers, and often very poor and humble strangers.—London Mail.

Clearing Up After War.

On the banks of the Thames, less than twenty miles from London, there is an American town of the mushroom kind such as you might find in a new California oil field. Its population consists of more than 200 white men and about 150 negroes. It covers twenty-five acres which nine months ago were fallow grass land. The business of the town is to receive, sort and store war material. There is a street of wooden huts, another of corrugated iron huts, huge iron store sheds a quarter of a mile long, office buildings, water supply and electric lights, the whole surrounded by a hedge, a few armed sentries and much mud. All day long the khaki-clad negroes push and haul railway trucks full of war material.

War material coming back from Russia is being stored at this camp, also the fittings of the dismantled hospitals which the American army established in England.

Warmth Increases Oil Flow.

An electrical method of carrying warmth to the bottom of oil wells has been found in many cases greatly to increase the flow of oil. The heating process, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, decreases the viscosity of the oil, usually occasioned by the admission of air to the well and the cooling of the rock bed. Minute crevices and capillary channels which afford easy passage to warm, thin oil become quite impassable if the oil gums. The electric heating method not only thins the oil but often generates gas whose pressure helps the oil to the surface. The system found military use in the abandoned oil fields of Roumania and Galicia.

What's in a Name?

Most readers are familiar with the story of the German bank in a United States city which, finding its name unpopular, changed it to the "Sherman bank." Here is another example on the same lines: A popular New York city German restaurant was called the Kloster Glocke (Cloister Bell), and its front was decorated with a large bell as a sign. The name has been changed to the "Liberty Bell," and the bell of the old monastery now does duty as a replica of the one which rang out independence to the colonies.

Doubts Mechanical Skill.

A "prominent business man" has offered $50,000 for the privilege of being carried as mechanic on the first transatlantic flight made in an airplane. If this offer is accepted, it is to be hoped that his mechanical ability equals his enthusiasm.—Springfield Republican.

He was so badly hurt that he was taken to the Hospital, where he remained for several days. On recovery, he found that his bills at the Hospital amounted to about $24 and that the damages to his machine would cost as much more. One would think this would be all. But the railroad charged him $22 for damage to its property, and finally, the police had him arrested, and the judge fined him $22 for "reckless driving." In the words of a well known writer, "Some folks has all the luck."

DOING THEIR DUTY

Regular Newton State Guardsmen and Newton Constabulary with About 400 Men Hard at Work in Boston

Newton is certainly alive to the seriousness of the situation which exists in Boston on account of the recent desertion of the police force, and both the Newton Company of the State Guard and the Newton Constabulary are either actually at work or are in training for duty.

Company A of the 11th Regiment of the State Guard, the Newton Company, which has been performing patrol duty in Boston for over a week, was, on Sunday transferred from Roxbury to the important post of guarding Tremont and Washington streets, between Eliot and Winter streets, with headquarters at the South Armory. There are 60 men under command of Capt. Henry W. Crowell on duty from 8 A.M. to 4 P.M.

The Traveller on Monday had the following comments in regard to the Newton Company—

"The guarding regime little by little is falling into the set and fixed lines which characterize good city policing. It conforms more to military policing, of course.

For instance, because of the emergency, La Grange street, which is the police headquarters street of that section, has become a one-way street, not only for vehicles but for pedestrians.

The corporal of a company, the 11th from the Newtons, at the Tremont end of the street, informs each would-be passer here of that fact. And you don't get by. He uses the same politeness in establishing similar information in the minds of teamsters who turn into the street.

He never loses his temper; he never "gets rough." He is a fine example of the tactful guardsman whose frankness and good nature this forenoon made him half a dozen friends on as many teams where the drivers at first were inclined to grumble.

Ernest G. Haggood, headmaster of the Girls Latin school, six feet two and one of the finest appearing of the many good looking men in khaki now patrolling the down town district, and Representative Tom Weston are on patrol duty on the block bounded by Tremont, Lagrange, Washington and Eliot streets.

Company A has had a tough experience thus far in performing their duty, but have responded nobly to the demands placed upon them. The Roxbury district is a hard one to cover, both on account of its size and the class of people who live there. The Company has been short-handed and with men on special details, like banks and other important business places, patrolling has been long and tedious. Last Saturday the men went on duty at Roxbury at 8 A.M., and on account of some trouble in the relief detail, were kept on continuous duty all that night, were transferred to the South Armory early Sunday morning, arriving there at 6.30 and at 8 A.M. went on duty in the Tremont street district, and were not relieved until 4 P.M. that day. It is said that some of the men were so tired that they actually cried. Capt. Crowell is an enthusiast on the spirit of the men, notwithstanding such hardships. He tells of one incident, where he found it necessary to have at once 20 men from a bunch of 32 men who had just laid down for a much needed rest. He merely asked for volunteers, when one man shouted, "Company A all up" and there was an immediate response from every Company A man present.

The Tremont street district is a particularly hard one to cover on account of the traffic, the important

TEN CENT FARES

Public Hearing Given on Tuesday at State House, Without Definite Action

The proposed rate of ten cents which the Middlesex & Boston Company proposed to put into effect on Sept. 20 all over its system, with 12-cent transfers was suspended by action of the Public Service Commission, who gave a public hearing last Tuesday on the matter.

The case of the company was presented by the president, Mr. Pitt F. Drew, after which a report was made by Mr. L. H. McLean, the expert of the Commission on the matter of a five-cent fare, with shorter rides.

It has been figured out by the Commission that a system of five-cent fares for short rides will bring to the company such patronage which it does not get and will solve the problem of raising more revenue. It is possible that, under the proposed system, some of the patrons will have to pay more than they are paying now under the 10-cent system. The Commission has tried to work out a solution just to the public and to the company, and believes that it will be better than the 10-cent fare.

The Waltham city solicitor asked additional time for consideration of the 5-cent plan. The representatives of Wellesley, Natick and Newton were disposed to favor the 5-cent plan rather than the 10-cent system desired by the company. It was suggested by the commission that there might be a trial of the 10-cent fare for a short

TWOMBLY HOUSE

Delightful Festival Held for its Benefit at Newton Centre

The grounds of Mrs. J. S. Cordingley of Crystal Lake, Newton Centre, presented a beautiful appearance yesterday afternoon when the ladies of Newton Centre and of the other Newtons as well gathered to purchase their Holiday gifts, and at the same time aid the Twombly House which is doing such good work in Upper Falls.

The sunlight shone invitingly through the trees, and the light breeze across the waters of the Lake made one long to linger. A small admission was charged at the gate after which one was free to wander where he wished.

Directly in front of one as he entered was the fancy table where were displayed temptingly bags of every description, caps, aprons, dollies, and articles for my lady's toilet.

A little to the right of this, the flower table made a brilliant bit of color with its gladioli, asters of every description, marigolds, ferns and other potted plants.

Beyond the flower was the vegetable table which groaned under its weight time, say three months, to see how it worked. But it was only a suggestion.

Without giving any indication of its position, the commission closed the hearing and took the petition under advisement.

3000 MEMBERS

Newton Post of American Legion Has That in View

A meeting of all members of the Newton Post of the American Legion, and all men in the city who have not become members of the local post but who have seen service in the great war, will open the campaign of the Newton soldiers for a bigger, better and busier post, according to the plans perfected by the executive committee at a special meeting held at the armory at West Newton Monday evening.

The meeting will be held at the armory, and it will mark the beginning of the drive. Every day, until Sunday, Sept. 23, the canvas will be continued. A team captain has been appointed in each section of the city, and each captain will be aided by a large squad of assistants.

Every service man in Newton will be approached. The hopes of the post officers are for a total enrollment of close to 3000 men. In order to make the inducement stronger, the executive committee last night decided that those who enroll this coming week will be permitted to join without the payment of an initiation fee, which means that the payment of the annual dues is all that is required to become a member of the Newton Post. After the drive the initiation fee will go into effect.

The committee decided to hold meetings every two weeks for the present, in the different sections of the city, beginning with Nonantum, Oct. 20. Newton Centre, West Newton, Newton Highlands and Newton Corner will be visited in order.

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thomas Hanron, Dwight S. Brigham of Newton Centre, formerly lieutenant colonel of engineers, United States Army, was elected historian.

The names of many prominent citizens have been proposed for honorary membership and will come up for action at the next regular meeting of the post.

MISS WARING TO BE MARRIED

Saturday noon, Sept. 20, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Waring, 29 Davis avenue, West Newton, will occur the marriage of their daughter, Elmore, to Mr. James Bowman Campbell of St. Johnsbury, Vt. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Woodman Bradbury, D.D., of Newton Centre.

Miss Waring is a graduate of Simmons College and Mr. Campbell of the University of Vermont.

They will make their home in St. Johnsbury, Vt., where Mr. Campbell is State's Attorney.

The "Co-operative Bank" was at first a neighborhood affair. Small groups of thrifty people clubbed together and made their savings bring them a greater return than they could in any other way.

The same spirit of co-operation lives today. The same scale of maximum earnings apply.

But in today's banks like ours, with finely organized management and State supervision, the factor of safety to funds has been raised to the highest point.

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

Leaving Edmonton at midnight, the next morning we were within sight of the Canadian Rockies, and soon after passed thru a tunnel 300 feet long and "arrived" so to speak. This part of the Canadian Rockies is not so well advertised as the southern portion, which we are to see later, but to an Easterner, it was well worth the trip across the continent to enjoy. Jasper Park is the name given to a territory containing 4,400 miles of mountain and valley in this part of the Rockies and is a national reservation. The railroad runs alongside the Athabasca river, which widens at times into long narrow lakes, surrounded by hills and mountains, on which one can feast his eyes in a constantly changing panorama of beauty. The little hamlet of Jasper in the centre

a hot fire of wood, and was constantly turned on a big iron spit by the Japanese cooks who were preparing it. When served later, it proved rather tasteless, but the meal was helped out with some kind of smoked fish and vegetables. It was served by ladies who were spending the summer in the surrounding tents and who were riding breeches, like the men. Afterwards there was a simple church service in a nearby grove. I forgot to mention the fact that it was Sunday—in fact we nearly lost track of the days as we travelled along. Returning to the station we were entertained at the home of the Superintendent, Col. Rogers, who is an enthusiast on the possibilities of the region as a pleasure resort. Our train then rolled slowly thru of this region will undoubtedly become one of the beauty spots of the continent—it only lacks hotel accommodations and advertising. The hotel is promised for next year, and I predict a rapid growth in patronage. As we left the train, we first noticed the delicious mountain air, next the totem pole, which had been brought down from Alaska, and then the mountains surrounding the valley. I knew at once that I was going to like Jasper, even with the prospects of a barbecue as our next meal.

This little place is surrounded by mountains from 8000 to 10,000 feet in height, not so high of course as those we were to see later, but high enough at that time to our unsophisticated

the mountains in order that we might enjoy the scenery, and 20 miles further stopped at the village of Lucerne for the night.

Many of our party fell in love with Lucerne, and it was certainly a beautiful spot, with the mountains close at hand, surrounding a lovely little lake. The village consisted of but one alleged street, from which the tree stumps had not yet been removed. The street was lined with log cabins of one or two rooms each, and the forest came right up to the back doors. One of our party said that it reminded him of a typical Alaskan village. Right in front of us, across the lake, loomed the Seven Sisters, jagged snow clad peaks, while at the left, there was a mountain, which eyes. The most beautiful of all was Mount Edith Cavell, which had recently been renamed in honor of the martyred English nurse. It was covered with snow and some of the party imagined that the snow took the form of an angel with outspread wings. I could not follow the flight of such a strong imagination as that, but the mountain was beautiful even without this picture. On the other side of the valley, the top of one of the mountains made a clear cut profile of a man's face, looking up into the sky, while all around were mountains in many and varied forms. We found mountain wagons and ponies waiting to take the ladies to "Tent city" two or three miles away, but the most of us walked. The trail led down by a dominated the whole village, and which so far as I could gather from the natives, had never been named.

An attempt was made to hold an outdoor church service in the village street that evening, but it was interrupted three times by dog fights and added little to the sanctity of the day. I forgot to mention the fact that just before we reached Lucerne we passed the divide, 3,775 feet in height, from which one river flows into the Arctic ocean and the other into the Pacific. This divide is also the boundary between the provinces of Alberta and of British Columbia.

The next morning the train resumed its leisurely pace thru wonderful scenery as we followed the begin-others. But to my utter amazement, as we passed around the side of another mountain, we suddenly came into full view of Mt. Robson and I shall never forget the impression of awe and reverence that thrilled me. I do not think it possible to adequately describe the sight I witnessed, and it is a curious fact that a kodak I took of the mountain, is utterly different from the impression I still have of the view. Imagine, if you can, a solid mountain of rock, rising for about two miles over your head, with the sunlight on its snow clad peak, and a little white cloud, a sort of necktie, emphasizing its great height. Its cliffs rose up nearly straight for thousands of feet, and while its tip was 12 miles away from us, it seemed as if one could throw a stone upon it. Later we were to see another wonderful mountain, which the Indians call "The Mountain that was God." It seemed to me that Robson should have had that title for I have never seen anything which impressed me so strongly, that I felt as if I should remove my shoes, for where we stood must certainly be holy ground.

We were particularly fortunate, it appeared, in having a clear view of the mountain, as the railroad men said it had been covered with clouds for many weeks, with only occasionally glimpses of its beauty and majesty. I have three superlative impressions of our entire trip, and this view of Mt. Robson is one of them.

As we continued our ride down the river, we had a fine view of Pyramid falls, close to the railroad. We reached Kamloops about nine o'clock, and most of the party were given an automobile ride about the city, altho it was quite dark. We walked over to the business part of the town, which was brilliantly lighted up, but found few places open and even a post card was hard to find. We tried to get an ordinary soda, but the attendant evidently didn't know what we meant. We could have had an ice cream soda, but a soda without ice cream was evidently unknown. When the automobilists returned from their ride, they told of a hair raising trip on a narrow road, with elbow and hair pin turns, with a drop of hundreds of feet, within 12 inches of the wheels, and the driver nonchalantly informing his passengers of how many accidents had taken place on that very road.

Kamloops has about 5000 inhabitants and is surrounded by an excellent fruit country. It contains a Chinese Masonic temple, and there is an Indian reservation close by.

The next day we had a rather tiresome ride down the Thompson river canyon and the Fraser river canyon and stopped for the night at a little place called Boston Bar. The canyons are deep and narrow and the railroads occupy a shelf on each side. The Canadian Pacific road came thru first and had the first option, and when the Canadian Northern came, it had to take the other side of the river. It is a great piece of railroad engineering and must, at times, be dangerous to operate, thru land slides down to the track from the top, and the caving in of the banks underneath. There are numerous tunnels, altho none of them of great length. The river is a deep rapid stream, said to be several hundred feet deep, and is full of swirls and eddies.

Our stay at Boston Bar was enlivened by a dance in the railroad station and some more moving pictures and our advent there was quite a treat to the natives.

One of the interesting spots in the Fraser Canyon is Hell Gate, where the mountains come so close that the river is narrowed to about 100 feet in width, and is of unknown depth, as the stream is so rapid and strong that it is impossible to reach the bottom with any measuring instruments. It is a fearsome spot, crossed by a shaky little suspension bridge. The mountains here are high enough to be snow clad even in the middle of August, but the weather was hot and close, probably due to the fact that the valley is so closely shut in.

was a long, hot ride into Vancouver, and for some unaccountable reason, we just poked along thru uninteresting country, and did not reach the city until late in the evening. The clear, cool breezes we struck here were in great contrast to the hot afternoon, and I knew I was going to like Vancouver from the very first. There was a time, however, a little later when I began to think Vancouver wasn't so much of a place after all. The reason was simple. It came from the fact that most of us had the same notion, that instead of staying in our berths that night, we would go to the hotel and luxuriate in a room and bath. We soon found that besides our little party of 200 and more, there were a few thousand other travellers in town that night and every hotel was crowded to the roof. The clerk at the Hotel Vancouver, however, was so courteous and obliging, and so uninterested that some of us went away swearing mad. At another smaller hotel, the Castle, across the street, however, we found a clerk who was most courteous and obliging, even tho he couldn't give us the accommodations we wanted. We enjoyed an exhibition of sweet peas which was in the hotel lobby, and then walked back to the train and went to bed.

We later learned that Vancouver is without extremes of heat or cold and has an average temperature of 48 degrees. The city is surrounded with mountains, some of them high enough to have a little snow on their tops even in the summer.

SAVERY—WEBSTER

A very pretty home wedding took place last Saturday at Windsor road, Waban, when Miss Anna Eleanor Webster, daughter of Mr. Frederic William Webster, was married to Mr. Warren Hapgood Savery of Wareham, Mass.

The bride is a graduate of the Household Arts Department of the Framingham Normal School (1914), and of Teachers' College, Columbia University (1917). The groom, a graduate of Maine University (1912), returned in July from France where he spent fifteen months as Lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles H. Cutler of the Union Church.

The bride wore a white georgette gown trimmed with pearls with a white satin train and a veil of tulle. The matron of honor was Mrs. Frederic W. Webster, Jr., of Newton Highlands, who was dressed in pale yellow silk trimmed with silver lace. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the house which was tastefully decorated with palms and hydrangeas. There was music by piano and violin.

After Dec. 1st Mr. and Mrs. Savery will live in New York City.

For representative there should be no question among Republicans over the re-nomination of both Mr. Bernard Early and Mr. Abbott B. Rice. Mr. Early has made an exceptionally good record for a first year man and his work on the important committee on Metropolitan Affairs has been of particular value to Newton. He has also made a good impression on the other members of the Legislature and will exercise a strong influence on the work of the next session. Mr. Rice has been a member of the committee on Ways and Means, where the work is more general and therefore of less local interest. For the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Leland Powers, there are two candidates, and modesty prevents the editor from expressing any preference in this column. We can only refer to the advertisement written for us by a personal friend, which will be found elsewhere.

The action of many members of the Newton Constabulary in joining the State Guard for the purpose of sustaining the Governor and the Boston authorities in the present emergency, should be highly commended. It is also complimentary to the Constabulary that the suggestion that it become a part of the State Guard came from Governor Coolidge, who has been aware of the work the organization has been doing during the war.

This action also indicates in no uncertain manner, the feeling among the business and professional men of the state in regard to the police situation in Boston as well as the attitude which will be assumed by the general public towards a sympathetic strike among other labor organizations.

The state primary next Tuesday will be of more than ordinary interest because Newton has two candidates for the important office of attorney general, Mr. J. Weston Allen of Newton Highlands and Mr. J. Mott Hallowell of Chestnut Hill. In addition there are several other candidates from different parts of the state, although it is confidently predicted that they will receive but little support in this city. Mr. Allen, thru his splendid run last year for this nomination, is undoubtedly in the lead, not only in this city but thruout the state, although the friends of Mr. Hallowell are putting up a mighty good fight for this well equipped man for the office.

In the matter of increasing the salary of members of the Legislature, Messrs. Early and Rice voted in opposition.

MAGAZINES AND BOOKS WANTED

The authorities in Boston are calling for Magazines and books for men serving in the State Guard in Boston. These may be left at the Newton Library or any of its Branches.

Senator Arthur W. Colburn of Dracut, is making a winning campaign for county commissioner. He is one of the best equipped men who ever aspired to the position. A long service as town official, representative and senator has brought him into wide contact with the public administration of affairs and given him an experience that few possess. He is a graduate of New Hampshire college and is qualified educationally, as well as in a practical and business way for the position. Voters at the Republican primary on September 23 have an opportunity to do the eminently proper thing in this case by nominating Senator Colburn.

Cambridge Chronicle Editorial.

For Councillor

The Lowell end of the Sixth Councillor District has not had Republican representation for 14 years, and now presents for that office the name of Ex-Representative Fred O. Lewis

Mr. Lewis is an experienced, progressive and energetic business man, as the following endorsement indicates.

"Fred O. Lewis rendered services of high order as representative from the 15th Middlesex district in 1914-15-16. He is a man of unquestioned integrity and in Lowell business affairs enjoys a reputation for conservative methods and square dealing."

ALANSON GRAY,
18 Belmont St.
Director of the Massachusetts Grocers and Provision Dealers Association.
The present Councillor defeated former Councillor Mulligan on the ground that two terms was all the district would allow, and now he is a candidate himself for a fourth term. It's Lowell's turn NOW.

Lowell.

VOTE FOR BRIMBLECOM

"Frankness and sincerity are the characteristics of JOHN C. BRIMBLECOM, candidate for the vacancy in the House this fall. For over twenty years he has served the city as clerk of committees of the board of aldermen and has made that position of untold usefulness to the public good. His remarkable memory, his long experience and his honest-mindedness have enabled him to answer questions, to present figures and facts and to give advice when called upon based on past experiences which have been invaluable to the men who were trying to solve city problems. In all this time he has never failed to be honest, he has played no favorites, he has sought to conceal nothing, but has placed fully and frankly at the disposal of the aldermen his entire knowledge of city affairs. Now of all times is courage the great necessity in public officials.

Such an experience and such a courage as he has shown, will be of great benefit to the city if he is elected to the Legislature as he combines with his intimate knowledge of city affairs and problems a keen knowledge of legislative business gained through twenty years' experience in newspaper work on Beacon Hill, combined with a wide acquaintance with the men with whom he will serve if elected."

A STRONG ENDORSEMENT.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

With a field of three candidates for the office of County Commissioner, Newton Republicans will not hesitate to vote for the renomination of the present Commissioner, Hon. Erson B. Barlow of Lowell. Mr. Barlow has served for six years, and his experience in the office makes him far more valuable for the County than any new man could possibly be. During the period Mr. Barlow has served the business of the County has grown by leaps and bounds. Where it was only necessary to hold one or two meetings a week, the Commissioners now give nearly every afternoon with two regular meetings scheduled at East Cambridge and many hearings held thruout the County.

Mr. Barlow represented Lowell in the House for three years and one year in the Senate previous to his election as County Commissioner. He is 36 years of age and in the insurance business in Lowell.

Bernard Shaw's on for a second week. E. Clive is Henry Higgins, H. Conway Wingfield is Eliza's father, commonly known as the “Dustman,” and Miss Jessamine Newcombe is Higgins's wife.

The Housing and Land Problem in Great Britain

There is presented herewith the reproduction in abridged form of a report by Albert Farwell Bemis, President of the Bemis Bro. Bag Co. of Boston, who represented the interests of the American employer on a Commission recently sent abroad by the National Civic Federation to study industrial conditions during the reconstruction period.
Mr. Bemis is President of Bemis
Bro. Bag Co. of Boston, and is connected with several other important textile companies. He has for many years been a member of the Board of Government of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, and was President of this organization for two years. He is also Treasurer of the National Council of American Manufacturers, and a member of the National Industrial Conference Board.
Mr. Bemis is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has given special study to the subjects of industrial relations and housing. He resides at Chestnut Hill and is an ex-alderman of Newton.

Long wars usually bring housing problems. The condition after the Napoleonic wars has been thus described:

"The building of houses was so discourage that the consumption of bricks and glass was actually declining. There was a tax on windows, which yielded a million and a quarter annually, and which caused the building up of windows, and a consequent shutting out of sunlight, to the serious diminution of human comfort and health."

"There was no drainage, and the filth of the city lay festering on the streets, poisoning the unhappy people."

In France the houses destroyed and damaged beyond ordinary repairs within the devastated area may be taken as the measure of the present shortage. This would approximate 410,000 homes. In Great Britain 450-000 would probably represent the actual need.

Strange as it may seem, the conditions of the war have inspired among all classes of people a greater interest in humanity, and a greater regard for the physical and social conditions
under which the masses of a population live. During the war the people of Great Britain and France became accustomed to the handling of large national problems by direct governmental action. For this reason and because of the size and extent of the problem, it is natural to find the governments of both countries adopting measures for fostering individual and associated interest in the subsidizing of improved industrial and community housing, and the prompt building of modern homes for workers.

In both Great Britain and France,
there has been a distinct revival of interest in agriculture as the result of the war, and partly in fear of emigration, both governments have been taking steps toward improving agricultural lands and opening up additional areas for the growing of food and feed stuffs. Whereas the number of schemes having to do with the carrying on of this work is great, accomplishment so far has been small.

Building Cost Now on Parity
Prior to the war, a house which, in Great Britain or France would have cost $2,000 would have footed up about $3,000 in the United States. As a result of the war, more radical advances have taken place in Europe
than in America, and the present cost of building in both Great Britain and France is about three times the pre-war cost while that in America is approximately double. This puts America on an approximate parity with these two countries, and the house above mentioned would cost practically $6,000 in all three countries.

In Great Britain practically all dwelling houses, wherever situated,
are of solid masonry construction—
stone or brick—and, save in the cities,
are without cellars or basements.
There is no air space for insulation
against temperature and moisture, and the inside plastering is placed directly on the surface. The flooring is usually of brick, tile or stone. The water supply is generally limited to an outside tap. Even in the rather attractive Liverpool tenements, built by the municipality in 1885, there are no direct water or sewer connections,
both being located in the hallways outside and for the use of two to four families. Most of the workmen's tenements in Great Britain are without yard space. The heating is from fires, and the window spaces are, in general, rather small.

Good Examples of Modern Housing
The description above applies to the houses of twenty-five or more years ago, and these comprise by far the greater portion. There are, however, several recent community and industrial developments, such as those at Letchworth, Ealing and Bournville,
where there are fine examples of modern housing. The two first mentioned were built and managed by co-operative societies. At Bournville, which I consider the queen of all England's industrial towns, private enterprise
did the building but later turned it over to the public to administer. In Liverpool the municipal corporation, after wiping out numerous slums, has substituted much fine modern city housing.

The solid masonry of the older type of house makes it difficult though not impossible, to introduce modern conveniences. With few exceptions the housing of industrial workers of Great Britain is in towns and cities which have preceded the industrial plants, and rarely has housing been constructed as an integral part of an industrial plant.

A noticeable feature in the finish of the front doorways of most of the recent industrial tenements in Liverpool is that the locks and latches are of brass. Commenting on this feature,
Mr. Turtin, Director of Housing, said that the condition of the "handle
of the big front door" largely depicted the condition within the house. By this simple device the work of inspection was made easier, for these door latches represent the degree of orderliness of the tenants and at the same time give opportunity for the force of example to exert itself.

Mining House Bad

The mining industry is one in which employers have provided housing to the extent of about thirty-three and one-third per cent. While this has not been the cause of the low standard of housing conditions in the mining regions, it has brought severe criticism upon the mine owners, and has justly tended to fasten upon the employers a large measure of obligation for decent living quarters in industries forming practically the only productive business in their immediate section. Both because of the dirty and continuous nature of the work,
and the limited scope for the satisfactory grouping of dwellings in the proximity of the mines, living conditions in this industry have vied with the slums of the big cities in overcrowding, dirtiness and ill health.
Mining towns are sure to receive particular attention in Great Britain's immediate housing program.

Labor's demands in Great Britain
at the present time are anomalous.
On the one hand the cry is for shorter hours, and on the other for increased wages and better and more houses. The enormous waste of war materials has impressed large masses of wage-earners with the idea that there is no limit to the resources of

As the local government of Scotland is quite distinct from that of England and Wales, housing and town planning legislation for that country has been through entirely separate acts of Parliament. These follow fairly closely the lines already referred to, and they need not be considered here.

Recent legislation in Great Britain indicates a tendency to limit or control rentals even to the extent of subsidizing the business from the public revenues. It is doubtful, however, whether this latter tendency will persist, because, as an economic proposition, it is clear that the Government cannot subsidize all industries and businesses without precipitating insolventy.

Housing Movement Expedited
With a view to avoiding unnecessary delay in meeting the extensive housing needs of the nation, the Local Government Board of Great Britain, on February 6, 1919, offered to local authorities an Public Utility Societies virtually the same measures and plan of Government financial assistance as those contemplated by proposed new legislation, and since included in the Government housing bills. Loans thus made by the Government are to be liquidated by an-

MR. ALBERT F. BEMIS

the State. They wonder why houses could not be provided at an expense
of, say, fifty million pounds annually,
if the Government can afford to spend twenty-five or fifty times that amount on the prosecution of the war. They fail to appreciate that the country has been living for the past four years on her capital, and that a continuance of that policy for much longer would result in national bankruptcy. It is not easy for the wage-workers to understand that by a doubling of nominal wages in the building trades the nominal cost of houses, and hence nominal rentals must inevitably double if Capital, however owned, is to continue to provide homes for the individual.

Luxuries Cost Would Build Houses
A prominent authority has estimated that from ten to twenty thousand rich persons spend unnecessarily
in luxuries each year in Great Britain fifty million pounds or more.
If, through large taxes on luxuries or an amplification of the existing graduated income tax, sums heretofore spent in this way, and the labor employed in manufacturing and distribution, could be diverted to the building of houses.

Modern housing legislation in Great Britain commenced with the "Laboring Classes Lodging Houses Act" of 1851. Material amplification was made in 1875, and there was a gradual betterment in the laws which culminated in 1890, when the "Housing
of the Working Classes Act" was passed.
This consolidated the housing measures in all previous acts, and included
new provisions.

In 1879 George Cadbury, the great cocoa manufacturer, started the development of the village of Bourn-ville. In 1869 the city of Liverpool opened its first tenement building. In 1895 the then Sir William Lever founded Port Sunlight. In 1899 the Garden City Association was founded,
and in 1906 the National Housing Reform Council was set up, to be followed in 1909 with "The Housing and Town Planning Act," a further amplification of the statute of 1890. It established a system of nation-wide inspection under the sanitary authorities reporting to the Local Government Board, and extended and amplified the policy of national Government aid. Local authorities were permitted to borrow from the Public Works Loan Commissioner on the security of their local for land and 60 years for buildings. Developments by societies, corporations and individuals, subject to certain limitations, might be aided financially through the Public Works Loan Board under essentially the same terms as local government schemes. The needs of individual workers were met by the "Small Dwellings Acquisition Act" of 1899, which permits local authorities to advance sums of not more than 300 pounds, representing not more than four-fifths the market value of a house whose total value must not exceed 400 pounds.

Thirty-Five Million Invested in Housing

Up to 1916, 528,742 persons had been housed in England through constructive housing legislation, and 7,649,597
pounds had been invested by the national government in housing. Model dwellings on cleared slum areas in London showed a decrease in the death rate of from 40 to 13 in the thousand.
In Port Sunlight, just outside Liverpool, seven-year-old boys average two and seven-tenths inches taller and seven and one-half pounds heavier than those in Liverpool itself.

nity payments over a period not exceeding fifty years, and would be issued up to three-quarters of the total value, and include a plan similar to that of Government subsidies to the extent of twenty-five percent of total value as contemplated in pending legislation, with the additional provision, however, in the case of Public Utility Societies that "any profits of the Society in excess of 6 per cent shall be devoted in whole or in part as may be required by the Local Government Board towards the repayment of sums received from the Exchequer by way of subsidy during the currency of the loan."

The Government has appointed a new official in connection with housing known as the Director of Propaganda. It will be his duty to arouse and maintain general interest in housing matters, and it is proposed that he work through a subordinate attached to each of the thirteen regional commissioners.

Financial assistance to local authorities is to be calculated on a basis estimated to relieve these of the burden of any annual deficit in expenses of operation to the extent of the excess in the local tax "rates" of a penny on the pound, assessable against the area in question. There is to be no donation by Government towards the cost where the annual excess of expenditure over income would not exceed that amount. It is estimated that the capital expenditure
by Government during the three years of its proposed assistance would amount to £300,000,000 for England and Wales, based upon an average capital cost per house of 600 pounds, and the net deficit to be met out of public funds on account of subsidies to Public Utility Societies, and contributions toward the cost of operation in the case of developments by local authorities, would amount to £6,500,000. Similar figures for Scotland would be 39,000,000 pounds capital expenditure
and 845,000 pounds net deficit.

1936 Schemes Submitted up to May 31
A total of 1936 schemes had been submitted up to May 31 by 660 local authorities and 36 Public Utility Societies, under the plans for Government assistance described above. The total area of the sites covered by these schemes was 25,000 acres, and the number of houses 250,000. Five hundred and seventy-four sites covering 13,364 houses for the approval of house plans had been received, of which 107 applications, providing for 5,201 houses, had been provided.

Reference has already been made to the "Small Holdings and Allotments Act." This gives power to county officials, acting under the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, to acquire land for lease or sale on easy terms, to those desiring to settle upon and cultivate it. Operations under this law have been comparatively small, involving loans by the national Government in the years preceding the war of approximately 5-6,000,000 pounds.
With a view to meeting the demands of demobilizing soldiers who want to acquire small agricultural properties,
the Government has introduced into Parliament two measures known as the "Acquisition of Land Bill" for improving and clarifying laws governing the condemnation and acquisition of land for public purposes, and the "Land Settlement Bill." Under these, County Councils would be given increased authority in the acquisition of land for development into small agricultural holdings which would be financed by loans from the national

This coal and gas range with two ovens
is a wonder for cooking

Although less than four feet long it can do every kind of cooking for any ordinary family by gas in warm weather or by coal or wood when the kitchen needs heating.

There is absolutely no danger in this combination, as the gas range section is as entirely separate from the coal section as if placed in another part of the kitchen. By using both the coal and gas sections of the top, nine large utensils may be heated at one time.

A Large Roast and other baking can be done at the same time in the coal oven. The advantage is plain—Two Ovens give double capacity and allow the cook to complete the baking in one half the usual time.

See the Pastry Baking always in sight in the gas oven. The most delicate cake can be perfectly baked and watched through the glass paneled door.

STEARNS SCHOOL

School has opened with an enrollment of over seven hundred.

The two portables asked for, to be ready when school opened, have not appeared and two hundred first and second grade children are on part time.

Mrs. Ella Howe, one of our first grade teachers, has been in the hospital nearly all summer and is still unable to return to school.

Our new teachers are John B. Dacey in grade eight and Beatrice Walker in grade four.

The lunchroom is more popular than ever this year, over one hundred fifty tickets being sold each day.

The children of this district have unusual opportunity for music. Instrumental music lessons are given on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at a rate of thirty cents a half hour.

The opening of the present school year in this department under the direction of Mr. Holman, reveals the fact that two new classes have been added increasing the total enrollment from 114 boys last year to 150 this year.

One of these classes is the extra sixth grade from the Stearns, the other being an extra seventh grade from the Horace Mann.

The eighth grades from both of these schools are allowed to elect a choice of two subjects at the beginning of the course.

The Stearns eighth grade consists of 23 boys, 9 of whom are in the Printing Department and 14 in the Woodworking Department.

Each department has been placed in charge of a member of the class who has been specially trained in extra hours for the work. Both rooms are supervised by Mr. Holman, who has as his assistant in the Print Shop Tony Visco, aged 15, and in the Woodwork Shop Tony Proia, aged 14. Master Proia has been mentioned in these columns before in regard to the excellent quality of his work and the fact that last year he led the school in the record of accomplishment in this department.

Master Visco had the habit last year of getting his report cards well plastered over with the highest marks that could be put on it, and at the present time we are able to see that he is a capable leader in his branch of the work.

A visit to the school, when the courage gets well under way is welcomed by any boy by Mr. Holman, who would be glad to meet the parents of the boys he is instructing.

MISS MUNGER DEAD

Miss Clara Munger, a noted vocal teacher of Boston, died Wednesday noon at Auburndale, where she had been spending the summer. Miss Munger was born at Portland, Me., and was the daughter of John W. and Emmeline Munger. She lived in that city until twenty years of age, developing a marked taste for music. She went abroad and spent five years studying under some of the best teachers, principally in Paris, and on her return to America she became professor of Music at Wellesley, a post which she retained for a season.

Miss Munger then began teaching in Boston, and at different times she had her studio in Park street, and later in the Pierce building in Copley square. Miss Munger taught many pupils who later became prominent, but her most famous one was Emma Eames. Miss Munger's nearest survivors are two nephews, who live in Boston and Idaho; and two nieces, one of whom lives in Auburndale, the other in Chicago.

BOTHFELD—ELMS

Miss Anna C. Elms, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Elms of Newton, and Henry S. Bothfeld, son of former Mayor Henry E. Bothfeld, also of Newton, were married at Duxbury Wednesday afternoon at the summer home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Abbot Pease, son, minister of the First Parish Church, Brookline.

Miss Elms was attended by three bridesmaids, Miss Helen Elms, her sister, Miss Helen Bothfeld, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Myra Upton Elms, a cousin of the bride, of Montclair, N. J. The best man was Theodore Bothfeld, a brother of the bridegroom. A full reception followed the ceremony. Mr. Bothfeld and his bride will live in Allston.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"Experience" ran for nine months in New York, playing at the Casino, Maxine Elliott and Manhattan Opera House. It then went to Boston and played for five months at the Shubert Theatre, Boston Opera House and Ye Wilbur. It was the first attraction in a decade to play three theatres in Boston in one season. "Experience" then had a run of seven months in Chicago, followed by a five months' engagement in Philadelphia, and three at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, where it will open its 6th season on Monday evening next, Sept. 22nd.

N. H. S. FOOTBALL

Thirty-four candidates for the Newton High School football team reported to Coach Alfred W. Dickinson at Cabot Park this week.

Only 18 reported in uniform. The other players stood around and watched Coach Dickinson direct the workout. Henry Garrity, who will be a candidate for the Princeton varsity team this fall, and Milanese Gullian, Newton High All-Intercollegiate tackle of last fall, who plans to enter Brown, assisted Dickinson.

Several of the Newton High candidates said that owing to the high cost of living they were unable to provide football togs this season. Whether authorities will provide for them is unknown. It is thought, however, the Newton High Athletic Association will make an appropriation for uniforms.

Robert Garrity has been elected captain of the Newton High eleven and will hold down his old position at right half.

Frank Dorney, a former Newton High captain, is to return to Dartmouth for a regular position on the Green eleven. Henry Moore will enter the Hanover College and also Austin Eaton, who was hockey captain and first baseman of the nine.

Manager Stanley Lyon of the Newton High eleven announces the following schedule:

Sept. 27, open; Oct. 3, Wakefield at Wakefield; 13, Newton High at Everett (Suburban League); 18, open; 25, Somerville at Newton (Suburban League); Nov. 1, Rindge Tech at Newtonville (Suburban League); 8, Malden High at Malden (Suburban League); 15, Brookline High at Newtonville (Suburban League); 22, Medford High at Newtonville (Suburban League); 27, Cambridge Latin at Newtonville (Suburban League).

Procure a piece of heavy canvas and hem to fit the required space; sew a snap hook to each corner. Place two screw eyes on each side of the hall, one as near the floor as possible, the other in the width of the canvas from lower one. The canvas is readily snapped in place on the screw eyes, forming an effective gate. With a screw in the banister the gate can be snapped out of the way when the kiddies are in bed.

DOING GOOD WORK

Newton Constabulary now Helping to Police the Back Bay District of Boston

The Newton Constabulary unit of the State Guard is settling down to its duties of policing Boston. The general headquarters is in the Mechanics Building, where the men have been since last week Thursday. On Saturday afternoon, over one hundred picked men were assigned to Station 1 near the railroad bridge on Boylston street for police duty. The detail was in charge of Major James R. Chandler and was on duty for 48 hours when it was relieved by a similar detail in charge of Major Brown. Each detail serves for 48 hours, each man having 8 hours of street duty, 4 hours of station duty, 4 hours' liberty and 8 hours for sleep.

This is the regular schedule, but for the first few days there were a number of lapses, due to unfamiliarity with the work and some of the men had continuous duty during a double shift. A strong effort is being made to secure additional recruits, and a number of men have already come in. Every new man helps to reduce the work of the whole, and anyone who can possibly do so, even at some sacrifice, should come in and help in the good work. Nearly every man in the unit has given up both his business and his pleasure to help along the cause and no able bodied man should be excused from performing some service in this emergency in the welfare of the Commonwealth.

The following incident shows how well the men are performing their duty. A Guardsman in the Fenway about 2.30 Thursday morning warned

EVERY LOYAL AND PATRIOTIC CITIZEN wishes to do his full duty in the present crisis in the City of Boston. A speedy restoration of law and order must have a far reaching effect. The Newton Constabulary, YOUR OWN HOME ORGANIZATION, has been mustered into the service of the Commonwealth.

Recruits are needed. Will every able bodied citizen, above the age of eighteen, who can, come to the Armory, Mechanics Building, Huntington Avenue, Boston, and enlist?

The Organization has been assured by the State authorities that it will be mustered out IMMEDIATELY when normal conditions are restored. YOUR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS have come forward and enlisted at GREAT PERSONAL SACRIFICE.

JAMES G. WHITE, Colonel Commanding, Newton Constabulary, Massachusetts State Guard.

AID THE FUND

The Newton Constabulary has been taken into the State Guard and is now on active duty. There may be delay in procuring from the State suitable clothing and equipment. It is proposed to raise a fund to enable Col. James G. White, the commanding officer, to procure what is needed at once. Such part of the fund as is not required or which is later reimbursed by the State will be returned to the subscribers pro rata.

Mr. Frank W. Remick, of Kidder, Peabody & Co., 115 Devonshire street, Boston, and a resident of West Newton, will act as Treasurer. Contributions may be sent to him.

Everything should be done for the welfare and efficiency of these men who are giving their valuable time to onerous and dangerous service.

SMALL VOTE AT PRIMARY

Allen Wins Nomination as Attorney General and Early, Rice and Brimblecom named for Representatives

Notwithstanding the fact that with interesting contests on the Republican side for nominations for state treasurer and attorney general and for representatives, and on the Democratic side for the nomination for governor, the voters of Newton gave scant attention to the state primary on Tuesday. Possibly this may have been due to the disagreeable weather, and possibly to the fact that some 400 public spirited citizens, most of whom were voters were kept in Boston that day as members of the State Guard. Only 2926 Republican ballots were cast and 256 Democratic.

With ex-representative J. Weston Allen of Newton Highlands, one of the principal candidates for the Republican nomination for attorney general and with Mr. J. Mott Hallowell of Chestnut Hill, another candidate for the same office, Newton had some interest in the outcome. Mr. Allen received a most flattering vote in the city, having 1243 votes to 335 for Mr. Hallowell. Mr. Bottomly of Boston, the other leading candidate, had 183. Mr. Allen wins the nomination in the state by a good margin. For state treasurer, Col. Perkins of Salem, the best fitted man for the office by far, received 815 votes here, to 527 for Mr. Burrell, who won the nomination.

For representatives there were four candidates for three places and the present representatives, Messrs. Bernard Early and Abbott B. Rice were re-nominated and John C. Brimblecom, editor of the Graphic, defeated Alderman Reuben Forknall for the third place. Rice led with 1588. Early had 1353, Brimblecom 1298, and Forknall 975.

The detailed vote by precincts for the above offices will be found elsewhere.

The other candidates received the following total vote in the city:

The following were elected to the Republican Ward Committee.
Ward 1—Reuben Forknall, William Hanson, Harold Moore, Ralph F. Barber, Franklin C. Jones.

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

Our day at Vancouver was certainly one long to be remembered for in it

we saw many unusual things. We were first taken across the ferry to North Vancouver which is a separate municipality from the larger city, and most of the party found automobiles waiting there. We were more fortunate and had places in a car leaving from the Vancouver side and did not have to change. Our first stop was at Capilano canyon, which has been made something of a recreation park

under private management. The most unusual thing about it, however, is the suspension bridge, several hundred feet long over the canyon itself,

some 200 feet in depth. This bridge is suspended by cables and the least

foot fall will make it tremble like a leaf in the wind. When one gets out over the canyon, the bridge sways like a boat in a heavy sea. Many of our party crossed it, but a few feet was enough for me or I would have been sea-sick. A little distance up the canyon there is a pretty little summer house where a charming view of the creek can be obtained. The tea-

ble tables here were made of tree trunks,

cut about six inches thick and the chairs were also of rustic design. A few miles further we came to the lumber camp of the Capilano Lumber

Company, where we were entertained at lunch. The lunch was said to be the same as was usually given the lumbermen, and if so, they certainly live mighty well. The food was simply fine, well cooked, fairly well served and ample in quantity and way up in quality. The lumbermen are said to earn from $5.25 to $10 per day and they evidently live accordingly.

After lunch, we were given seats on an "observation" train made up of an empty coal car, a flat car and one old fashioned passenger coach. We had two engines, one at each end and were given a ride up the mountain side, at marvelous grades, backed hither and yon, until I wondered if such a train

over got off the track, if so it would have been "Good night" for most of us. We finally came to the scene of operation. Here the Company had staged a most unusual event, topping

one tree and felling another for our entertainment. Topping a tree, means cutting off about 50 feet from the top,

and on a tree 225 feet high, the workman has some task. When ready he gave a yell and the top came gradually to the ground, leaving the ax-

man clinging like a leech to the swaying top. He then knelt on the top and lighted a cigarette, and told us

later he would have stood up if there had been less wind. The top was 34

inches across where the cut was made. The man came down from the tree like a squirrel, making leaps of six and seven feet, and the rope which passed clear around the trunk. It certainly took an expert to do what he did that afternoon.

The big tree which was ready to fall must have been 250 feet in height and was nearly 7 feet in diameter at the base. It fell with a great crash and broke in several places as a result. We were later told that there was about $300 worth of lumber in it.

We then returned over that weird

piece of railroad, and part went back by auto, the rest by train. On the road back, one enterprising resident had taken the pains to spell out the words "Welcome Editors" in white-washed stones on his front lawn. It must have taken hours of work and we certainly appreciated the compliment.

Returning across the ferry we then went to the steamer Princess 2nd and had a three hour sail around Vancouver harbor. It is a beautiful spot,

with the mountains coming right

down to the water's edge in places

and with water so deep that the steamer can almost put its bow right

on the shore.

That night we went on board the Princess Charlotte and woke the next morning in Seattle, Washington, the first United States soil we had seen for some time. Our baggage was passed rapidly by numerous courteous

revenue officers and automobiles took us to the Hotel Butler for breakfast.

Few of the party knew that this was an unexpected change in the program,

but the 11th hour change worked splendidly, barring some delay in

Roy leaves West Newton October first to accept a call to a large parish in London, Canada.

$45,000 FOR DUDLEY ROAD

taxes of soldiers, for authority to pay Federal Aid note of $40,000 due Sept. 18, for $5000 for working plans for new school at Waban, for $10,000 additional for Building Maintenance, were granted.

The Mayor also recommended $300 for a guard at the city magazine, for salary of $1200 for the Assistant Fire Chief, for certain increases in salaries of clerks in Street Dept., that a traffic officer be placed at Newtonville sq., that small salaries be considered by a small sub-committee, that an ordinance be passed allowing salary payments to officials serving in State Guard, and transmitted request of school committee that a petty cash account be authorized, a claim of P. A. Murray Co. against the city, and request of Comptroller for authority to employ an assistant at $1800 per year.

The appointment of Charles A. Mahoney as a Public Weigher was confirmed.

The school committee sent in communications approving plans for new school, at Waban, for two portable school buildings at Nonantum and requesting fixing up of buildings in rear of Technical High school for automobile work.

Petitions of T. D. Murphy, D. B. Rich, and Chas. Spilone for auctioneer licenses, for Nicola Deloro to transfer Victrola license to 405 Watertown street, of Mrs. Frank Kerns to transfer Victrola license to 1279 Washington street, and of P. R. Dunbar, Howland road, Isabella C. Nason, Moffat road, and Robert T. Fowler, Kenilworth street, for private garages were granted.

Other petitions were received from A. S. Kligman, Watertown street, Newton Highlands Garage, F. A. Cahill and Sam Bloom to deal in second hand automobiles, of D. Aharonian for jitney line between Upper Falls and Watertown, of W. H. Purdy, Beach street and M. J. Donahue, Walnut street for private garages, Edison Co. for relocation of pole on Watertown street and Highland avenue, of the Gas Co. to lay certain gas mains, for the laying out of Algonquin road, for drainage of Windsor road, for sewer in Mayflower road for improvement of Saw Mill brook for sewer in Bailey place, of F. B. Hopewell to enter sewer at special grade and protest against garage permit of W. H. Newcombe, Homer street.

On recommendation of Committee, $9,917.94 was appropriated for completion of work on South Meadow brook, hearings were assigned on the laying out of Adams street extension, Chandler street, Charles street, extension, Windermere road, Ardmore road, Ardmore terrace, and Algonquin road, for hearings on sewers in Fair Oaks avenue, Bridges avenue, Roslyn road, Wiltshire road and terrace, and for hearings on curbing on Middle, Chapel and Green streets.

After some telephoning to the Mayor, $5,844.60 was appropriated for two portable school buildings for use at the Stearns school.

E. B. Wilcox, Hermon terrace was granted permit for multiple garage, Helen C. Hopewell, permit for private garage on Waverley avenue, S. A. Whitaker, a gasoline permit on Woodward street, H. E. Devine for a license to deal in 2nd hand articles, Mrs. Annie Keough a transfer of lodging house permit to 507 Centre street, Nicholas Tocci for pool table, Oak street, and James Bland, wagon license.

Mrs. Keough, to intelligence officer permit, J. J. Connelly, for gasoline permit and George Chartier for Victrola license were granted leave to withdraw.

The big noise of the evening came over the appropriation of $45,000 for improvement of Dudley road, $30,000 by bond issue, and $15,000 for drainage. Alderman Forknall explained that all of the abutments but two had signed releases. He said the matter had become almost a night mare with him and the committee had met the wishes of the abutments as far as possible. The first thing considered was to make the road safe both for the present and for the future. It would be a waste of money in his opinion to spend $10,000 there this year and have the work to do all over again in the near future. The fact that some of the abutments had been somewhat disagreeable had not affected him in the least, but he was surprised at the attitude of the men of that district towards him personally.

When read a letter in which it was stated that if Mr. Forknall would agree to resign at once from the board of aldermen they might be able to do something towards nominating him as representative. The name of the writer was not given, unfortunately. Brief remarks were made by Aldermen Hollis and Blake and the order passed unanimously.

In the matter of police salaries, Alderman Angier explained that the committee favored granting the request of both the officers and men, except that the first year salary was fixed at $1400 with $100 annual increases to $1500 (the men wanted $1500 at first). The chief will be paid $3600, lieutenants $2300 and sergeants $2000. These salaries, Mr. Angier said, were, for the men, the highest of any but one in the state. 19 men will not receive the maximum this year when the new rate begins on October 1st. Mr. Angier said that the men were indignant at the reports in the Boston papers as to their dissatisfaction, and had used every effort to find the person responsible, the A. F. of L. had never been considered, except a joke, they had not been approached in the Boston situation, and the new rate would be satisfactory, unless conditions radically change. The order was then passed unanimously, together with orders fixing salaries of Street Dept division foremen at $1800 and certain increases in clerks in the Street and Assessing Departments.

The Mayor was requested to recommend the appropriation necessary to place the buildings in rear of the Technical High school in condition for use.

After the board officially adjourned, Alderman Goodwin on behalf of the board presented Alderman Justin A. McCarthy with a handsome electric lamp and tea tray, to which Mr. McCarthy, altho completely surprised responded in a neat and appropriate manner. Alderman McCarthy has recently been married and this was the first opportunity the aldermen had had to show their appreciation.

EDITORIAL

An appeal for more recruits for the Newton Constabulary unit of the Mass. State Guard is published in another column and should be read by every good citizen. It is hoped that there will be a general response to that appeal in order that the men now in service can be somewhat relieved from their present arduous duties, and that the burden of saving the community from any form of disorder may be spread more generally than at present.

This appeal, Mr. Business Man of Boston is aimed at you. It is the State Guard which has saved YOUR store or YOUR business from destruction. It is the State Guard which has saved YOUR wife and YOUR daughters from insult and outrage. It is the State Guard which has saved YOU time for pleasure and recreation. Why shouldn't you do YOUR part as well as the few hundreds who at great personal sacrifice, have borne the first brunt of the fight. As a patriotic citizen you should come in and give something YOURSELF and not rely on other men to defend YOUR property and family. Incidentally the uprising of hundreds of men like those now in the Guard and yourself, will effectively show the underworld that the Americans of today can defend their rights and liberties, as well as the men of 1776 or 1861.

Many persons have been thinking since the recent police strike if there was not some way in which the great, big, and apparently helpless general public might not organize and protect itself against these always annoying and oftentimes serious attacks upon it. If the grocers and provision men, for instance, should agree among themselves, and refuse to sell supplies to persons who attack the general public by means of a strike, it would bring home to them, in no uncertain manner, something of the inconvenience they were trying to inflict on others. Possibly we might take a lesson from the Food Administration during the shortage of flour and sugar during the war, and control, thru the wholesalers the output of the retailers. It is evident that unless something of this nature is brought right home to our 'servants' of whatever grade, in some such manner, there will be hardly any relief from the strike evil.

The editor is sincerely grateful to his friends all over the city for their help in securing for him one of the Republican nominations for representative to the General Court. He is very sure that the best thanks he can give is to assure them that he will perform the duties of that office to the best of his ability.

The appropriation of so large a sum as $45,000 for a country road like Dudley road will create a bad precedent as the aldermen will find to their sorrow.

The appeal for funds to fit out the Newton Constabulary, with proper equipment, is one, which we are sure the generous citizens of Newton will not allow to lag.

Roger Wolcott School
The Roger Wolcott School has adopted the departmental plan of teaching in the upper grades. It is believed that this method will prove as instructive as it is popular. Teachers and pupils alike proclaim it a success from the beginning.

Enthusiasm is rife over fall baseball during the recess periods and football before school. The playground green is indeed a hotbed of sports. The girls' baseball team was easily defeated by the boys, the score being 14 to 2. This week the seventh and eighth grades are running neck and neck for the interclass baseball honors. The seventh is at present one run in the lead. The Roger Wolcott School baseball and football teams challenge any grammar school teams in Newton, games to be played Tuesday or Thursday afternoon.

OPENING OF THE ALLEN SCHOOL
The parents and friends of the students of the Allen School met Wednesday evening at the School and inspected the newly installed commissary outfit which the school has recently acquired and which may well be taken as a model for other schools of this type.

There was an address by Sailor Ryan who during the war was engaged in maintaining the morale of the troops overseas. He called attention to the sterling qualities of the early colonists, and said that we must maintain the standard set by them. He appealed to the young men and to the teachers to maintain every respect for the law, and denounced Bolshevism in severe terms.

The school is fortunate in having a new dormitory.

The opening day was Thursday, the enrollment being about 100.

Two members of the faculty have returned from overseas, Mr. Lafayette F. Dow, and Mr. Andrews F. Crafts. The military drill will be in charge of Col. George Le Roy Brown, Commandant of the post.

POTATO ROT OR LATE BLIGHT

Just at the present time the State Department of Agriculture is receiving many inquiries relative to potatoes rotting.

Potato rot is a disease caused by a fungus which lives over the winter in a more or less dormant condition on decayed parts of tubers which have formerly been infected by it. For quite a long time it was not known that late blight and rot generally go together, that in a dry season when late blight occurs very little rot of the tubers themselves occurs. However, in a wet season, such as we have had this year, the same spore of disease is carried to the tuber itself and rot follows.

The only way to control rot is to control the late blight, and this can only be done by repeated spraying, but during a wet season as the past one, spraying has not the usual effect, inasmuch as the spray material has been washed off by the repeated rains, and there has been so little weather in which spraying can be successfully done that we have a much more serious condition with respect to potatoes than usual.

Now that rot has set in so badly, there are two courses which persons having potatoes to handle can follow: The first is, to dig out the crop at once, selling what tubers are not affected, and not attempt to store for winter use the tubers from those fields which seem to be affected. The other course is to leave the tubers all in the ground until well in to the middle of October. By that time those which have been affected by the rot will have entirely disappeared and what is left will probably be in such condition that they can be stored.

It does not seem that this year that there is much difference between high and low land potatoes. It is usual in wet seasons that the high land potatoes, while somewhat affected, would be the ones best suited for storage, but the individual will have to judge for himself, after digging, whether or not his potatoes are going to be fit for storage this year.

It is usually advisable, in the case of potatoes affected by rot, to get rid of the crop as soon as possible, depending upon other sections where rot has not been so bad for potatoes for the winter supply.

It also would be advisable next year not to plant potatoes on the land where potatoes were grown this year and affected by rot and also not to keep seed from stock which has been affected this way.

TAYLOR—LORD

Last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Marion Waterston Lord of 93 Claremont street, Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lord, was married to Mr. Aldrich Taylor, son of Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor of 238 Grant avenue, Newton Centre.

It was a home wedding, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Joseph H. Twitchell of North Adams. The bride looked charming in a gown of white satin with duchesse and point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and jasmine. The matron of honor, Mrs. George C. Lord of Wells, Maine, wore a gown of rose satin trimmed with silver. The attendants who wore gowns of jade green satin over white lace were Mrs. William R. Dewey, Jr. of Weston, Mass., and Miss Marion Gilbert of Great Barrington, Mass. They carried premier roses.

Mr. Taylor was attended by Mr. John E. Hume of Philadelphia, Pa., as best man.

The ribbon girls were the Misses Faith and Katherine Stone of Newton Centre, nieces of the groom.

The ushers were Mr. Edward H. Woods of Brookline, Mr. Charles W. Curtis, Jr., Marlboro, Mass., Mr. A. Maxwell Stone of Newton Centre, and Mr. Charles Rogers Lord of St. Francis De Sales Church, Charlestown.

Following the ceremony there was a reception from 8.30 to 10 at "Landholm," 93 Claremont street, Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor being assisted in receiving their friends by their parents. The house was beautifully decorated with clematis, white chrysanthemums, gladioli, china asters, and Aaron Ward roses. Music was furnished by a trio of young ladies.

After November 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will be at home at 27 Commonwealth road, Watertown, Mass.

CONNORS—KELLEY

Last Sunday evening Miss Alice M. Kelley of Charlestown, and Mr. John P. Connors of Cherry street, West Newton, were united in marriage by the Rev. Father Walsh of St. Francis De Sales Church, Charlestown.

The bride was dressed in pink georgette with pearl trimmings, with a hat to match, and carried pink Killarney roses, while the bridesmaid wore a Delf blue satin gown, with jet trimmings and a blue hgt.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Connors will take a trip to the White Mountains after which they will be at home to their friends at 323 Cherry street, West Newton.

METHODIST WOMEN

A most unusual meeting of interest to all Methodist women will be held Tuesday, September 30th, and Wednesday, October 1st, in the First M. E. Church, Temple street, Boston. A Regional Conference with National Officers and the Annual Meeting of the New England Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society will occupy the above dates.

Among the speakers are Mrs. W. P. Thirkield, National President; Mrs. M. L. Woodruff, National Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Daisy McLain Bulkley, Field Worker in Negro Conferences; Mrs. Seymour Eaton (a former Newton woman) Corresponding Secretary of Philadelphia Conference, and Miss Habrida, a Slavic student.

Some Coincidence.
From the Metropolitan tower, New York, on a clear day can be seen the domes of one-sixteenth of the entire population of the United States.

WORK OF THE RED CROSS

The following letter, written by the head of the American Red Cross, British Repatriation, Moon Hill Camp, England, proves the splendid co-operation between the different parts of the Red Cross all over the world:

Department Civilian Relief, American Red Cross, Newton, Mass.

Dear Madam:—

I can assure you it was a great relief to hear from you in regard to Frank Jones. He has been awaiting repatriation and a sailing home with such homesickness he has been almost ill—and yet he declared he could not go until he heard from home that it would be alright for him to go. I had no reply from my letter to his parents which I sent—without his knowledge—I thought they would tell me whether they wanted him to come back. He said he never would go unless he knew, and there the matter rested until your letter came. He has been safe and as happy as he could be under the circumstances—considering how anxious he was to go home, and yet so uncertain of a welcome he did not dare go. He has been on my "fatigue detail" of men who help me keep the club in order, and he has worked so faithfully and has done so many kind things. His family would be proud of him. He scrubs our kitchen, sitting-room, takes such pride in the boilers, scouring them until they serve as a mirror, and he has been most active on my several ball teams. He has written his sister repeatedly and has been heart sick at hearing nothing from her. He is booked to sail on this next boat, presumably the 30th, so he will be home very soon, and from what he has told me, if they love him in spite of his faults and childish naughtiness, he will never leave home as long as he lives. I have let him make fudge and have tried in every possible way to bring his home back to him. I am sure none of the wanderers of my "Boys of the Foreign Legion," as I call them, will be more happy to get back than he.

I am sure the American Red Cross will always be glad of the work they have been able to do among those splendid men who came at the call of war before America was in the struggle. They are so hungry for America that the ministrations of the American Red Cross appear like a touch of home and they are almost pathetic in their appreciation of what it is able to do for them. Hundreds of men are still on the way from Palestine and the far East, so it will be a few months before the work is finished.

Most sincerely yours,

(Signed) LILIAN BALDWIN.

Carp Honored in Japan.

Even in Japan the jellyfish is in ill repute, since that creature, once aoned fish like the carp, was beaten to jelly by his king because he allowed himself to be galled and outwitted by a monkey. But the carp is honored and sung, and every Japanese boy looks forward to the day he may, if called on, meet the chopper with the same stolid behavior.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Expression Easily Understood.

Are sticks really cross, and, if so, why should two sticks be particularly cross? Hold the two sticks before you to form the letter X or the cross. It is from this rather cheap trick and poor pun that we derive the expression that a person is as cross as two sticks.

DOUBLE WEDDING

On last Sunday evening at the rectory of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, took place the double marriage of the Misses Frances I. and Mary Riley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Riley of Henshaw street, Rev. Fr. William J. Farrell performing the ceremony. Miss Frances I. Riley became the bride of Mr. John M. Cullen of Waltham. Mr. Cullen was formerly a member of the 327th Casual Guard and Fire Company and served in the army for a year. He was discharged from the service last spring.

Miss Mary Riley was united to Mr. Arthur R. McCarthy of Cherry street, West Newton.

Mr. McCarthy is a member of the Newton Fire Department. He was formerly a sergeant in Wagon Company 5 of the 23d United States Engineers and saw 15 months' service in France.

The couple acted as attendants to the other.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the brides' home after which both couples left on a wedding tour to the White Mountains.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cullen will reside at 347 Watertown street and Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy at 228 Cherry street.

On Saturday the young people and their friends will hold a Field Meet at the Forest Grove Playground at 2.30 P. M. The Sunday afternoon services at the church will be resumed the first Sunday in October, and the Wednesday evening services will begin Oct. 8th.

—Wednesday the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held its regular meeting at the parsonage. It was to hold a fair the first week in December at the church. Sewing meetings will be held to prepare for the fair beginning the second week in October.

—On Monday a machine operated by Martin Day of 22 Emerald street, belonging to the Fox Furniture Co., struck and injured Carmine Armindolo, a six-year-old boy, whose home is on Adams street. The boy was attended by Dr. Gallagher and was soon able to walk home.

—The Rev. Edward T. Sullivan of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, has received a check of $20,000, from one of his parishioners who wishes to be known as John Smith, 2d, to distinguish him from a former benefactor.

The gift is for the building of a transept chapel to increase the seating capacity of the church, and also to provide adequate room for the Primary Department of the Sunday School.

The ladies will be interested in the workings of the Commissary department. That it is systematic and efficient is shown by the fact that at the first meal, 300 men were served in 13 minutes. Lieut. E. L. Child of Lexington, a U. S. A. Inspector, is in charge of this important work and has had ample experience both in the army and in charge of such affairs as feeding the refugees of the Salem fire in 1914, and as Chief Purchasing Commissary of the Boston Elevated Company during the strike of 1912.

Mess is served cafeteria fashion, the men passing thru the serving room and having food placed on their plates by attendants, and taking a canteen of coffee or tea as they pass out. Long tables in the dining room, one for each company, are set up with knives, forks, spoons, glasses of water, etc. On finishing the meal, the men clean their plates into a garbage can, and make separate piles of dishes and utensils before passing out. Lieut. Child says that in all his experience he has never seen a group of men who keep the tables as clean as the Constabulary.

The food is appetizing, well cooked and is most palatable. Here is one day's menu—

Dinner, beef stew and vegetables, rice custard pudding, potatoes, coffee.

Supper, frankfurts, potato salad, sliced pineapple, cold ham, tea.

Excellent bread and butter is also served at each meal.

Lieut. Child follows the regular army ration, the principal items being 20 oz. beef, 20 oz. potatoes, 1.32 oz. coffee, etc., daily, for which an allowance is made of one dollar per day per man. Experience shows that in order to maintain good health the ration must be varied and adapted both to men in active service and to men in quarters. Tonics, fruit and food from the outside is absolutely barred from the mess hall.

Comparison of prices paid in 1914 for supplies for the Salem refugees with present day prices may be of interest. Bacon has gone from 17 to 25 cents, sugar from 4.50 to 9.50, milk from 6 to about 14 cents and butter from 30 to 60 cents.

The Red Cross maintains a canteen in the recreation hall where articles can be obtained at cost, and they have also furnished cigarettes and matches, and have arranged to bring pillows to the men from their homes. The Knights of Columbus have also sent stationery, cigarettes and tobacco. Some friend has provided the outfit with a piano, and every evening there is some kind of entertainment in the recreation hall.

An instance of the work of the Constabulary occurred the other morning in front of the State House, when a prominent official was told not to park his car at that point. He remonstrated and said, "Why I parked my car here yesterday," to which the guardsman replied, "You may have done so yesterday and you may tomorrow, but you can't today."

Next week we shall publish a full roster of the men in the unit.
